Fisheries Management Div.

Tel: (813) 893-3721

Chief: Jack Brawner

Plans, organizes and implements fisheries management activities.

Fisheries Management Analysis Branch

Chief: William R. Turner

Reviews fisheries management plans developed by the regional councils. Coordinates the development of plans and appropriate research for fisheries within the territorial sea through the State-Federal Fisheries Management Boards; monitors and evaluates fishery management plans and regulations for effectiveness.

Regulations & Compliance Branch

Tel: (813) 893-3722

Chief: Donald Geagan

Develops regulations to implement fisheries management plans, holds hearings and reviews domestic and foreign fishing applications. Issues permits and licenses.

Environment & Technical Services Div.

Chief: Donald R. Ekberg

Plans, organizes, and implements environmental and technical services in the region.

Environmental Assessment Branch

Chief: Richard J. Hoogland

Manages the regional habitat protection program. Investigates and analyzes proposed environmental alterations and reviews environmental impact analyses. Coordinates coastal zone management activities.

Grant Program Administration

Tel: (813) 893-3161

Chief: I.B. Byrd

Manages the regional grant program for commercial fisheries research and development, and anadromous fish enhancement (PL 88-309 and 89-304).

Information Management & Analysis Branch

Tel: (813) 893-3726

Chief: Robert LaFollette

Manages the regional informational management program and provides analytical staff assistance to regional program managers.

Marine and Endangered Species Branch

Chief: Charles A. Oravetz

Develops protective measures for endangered/-threatened species, marine mammals and their habitats.

Law Enforcement Div.

Special Agent-in-Charge: Charles M. Fuss Jr.

Plans, organizes and implements law enforcement activities required by Federal statutes including the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976, the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 and the Endangered Species Act of 1973. Investigates alleged violations and assists U.S. attorneys in the prosecution of violators. Plans and participates in Coast Guard aircraft and surface patrols for the enforcement of Federal statutes in the Fishery Conservation Zone and conducts surveillance of foreign fishing off the U.S. coast.

Southeast Fisheries Center

75 Virginia Beach Dr.
Miami, Fl. 33149
Tel: (305) 361-5761

Center Director: Dr. William W. Fox, Jr.
Deputy Director: Dr. Richard J. Berry
Executive Director: Benjamin Jimenez-Miranda
Chief, Technical and Information Management Services: H. Erich Groess
Asst. Director, Research: Dr. Herman E. Kumpf
Asst. Director, Fishery Management: Dr. Albert C. Jones

Conducts research to provide management information for national and regional programs for NMFS and regional fishery management councils. Develops the scientific base required for: status of stocks and status of fisheries reports; environmental assessment and environmental impact statements for management plans; and international negotiations. Also conducts research for habitat conservation, aquaculture, fishery engineering, marine mammals, endangered species, fishery development, fishery oceanography, food science and fishery economics.

Miami Laboratory

75 Virginia Beach Dr.
Miami, Fla. 33149
Tel: (305) 361-5761

Director: Dr. William J. Richards

Conducts research in fishery analysis, recreational fisheries, economics and environmental impact. Emphasis is given to tropical and subtropical species, particularly those involving U.S. fishermen in foreign waters. Information developed is used to support various activities including: (1) analysis of bluefin tuna and billfish recreational fisheries, (2) studies of commercial fisheries sensitive to international pressures, and (3) studies of reef fisheries.

Mississippi Laboratories

Pascagoula Facility

3209 Frederic St.
P.O. Drawer 1207
Pascagoula, Miss. 39567
Tel: (601) 762-4591

Director: Dr. Andrew J. Kemmerer

Conducts research for resource assessment, fisheries development and conservation engineering. Develops biological and economic information to support development of underutilized fisheries in the Gulf of Mexico. Current activities include: (1) assessment and monitoring of Gulf of Mexico resources with emphasis on status, yield potential and abundance of groundfish stocks, (2) coordinating development of new fisheries, and (3) development of new and improved techniques for efficient and selective harvests, and (4) population surveys of endangered sea turtles and marine mammals.

Panama City Laboratory

3500 Dellwood Beach Rd.
Panama City Beach, Fla. 32401
Tel: (904) 234-6541

Director: Eugene L. Nakamura

Major responsibilities include life history, age and growth, egg and larval, food, and predator/prey studies of important commercial and recreational species. Conducts research on distribution, abundance and migratory patterns of mackerels, snappers, groupers and related demersal species.

Bay St. Louis Facility

National Space Technology Laboratories
Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520
Tel: (601) 688 3650

Director: Dr. Andrew Kemmerer

A national laboratory that has the responsibility for monitoring and applying technological advancements, developing new methods, and increasing the accuracy and efficiency of old methods for assessment and utilization of living marine resources. Develops sampling, monitoring and tracking systems to increase data return, coverage and accuracy. Current activities include: (1) satellite investigations to predict distribution and abundance of fish species, (2) investigations of airborne, surface and subsurface remote sensing techniques to detect, identify and quantify fish stocks.

Galveston Laboratory

4700 Avenue U
Galveston, Tex. 77550
Tel: (713) 763-1211

Director: Dr. Edward F. Klima

Conducts shrimp population studies, studies of shrimp/groundfish ecological relations, environmental studies related to offshore oil production and brine disposal from petroleum storage sites, and aquaculture related to shrimp, fish and endangered sea turtles.

Charleston Laboratory

217 Fort Johnson Rd.
James Island, P.O. Box 12607
Charleston, S.C. 29412
Tel: (803) 724-4770

Director: Harry L. Seagran

Develops technological information and provides related services to aid in the utilization of fishery resources of the Southeast. Provides improved detection capability of chemical and microbiological pollution. Identifies nutrients in industrial fishery products to guide their processing and marketing and identifies critical nutritive requirements for the culture of selected aquatic species. Also develops technological information for fisheries development and promotes public awareness and confidence in fishery products.

Beaufort Laboratory

Pivers Island
P.O. Box 570
Beaufort, N.C. 28516
Tel: (919) 728-4595

Director: Dr. Theodore R. Rice

Obtains and analyzes biological, economic and statistical information on commercial and recreational fisheries. Current activities include: (1) annual estimation of stock sizes, fluctuation in abundance and fishing rates in the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico menhaden fisheries, (2) population dynamics, life history and resource potential of offshore bottom species, (3) distribution, age and size, movements, catch and effort of mackerels, and (4) assessment of effectiveness of natural and artificial reefs in providing recreation and seafood fishing sources.

Also determines the structure and function of estuarine and the nearshore ecosystems to evaluate their fishery resources productivity and the effects of man's activities on these resources. Data is used to evaluate environmental impact statements and to develop recommendations for coastal zone management.

Office of Technical and Information Management Services (TIMS)

75 Virginia Beach Drive
Miami, Fl. 33149
Tel: (305) 361-5761

Combines data from many sources into an integrated information management system to provide decision makers and scientists with the necessary information to manage the Southeast fishery resorces. To accomplish this, TIMS manages a regional integrated information management system and provides automated data processing analytical capabilities to system users; manages an integrated fishery statistics and data acquisition program to provide a full range of biological, fishery, economic and sociological information; and provides standardization for development of experimental designs, sampling methods, data acquisition and analyses and surveys.

South Atlantic Sea Grant Program

Sea Grant is a major part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) in the Dept. of Commerce. Its activities are funded jointly by the federal government and by colleges and universities. Its marine advisory services offer a broad range of information concerning the nation's fisheries to commercial and recreational fishermen, fish processors and others.

Marine Advisory Program Newsletter

G022 McCarty Hall
University of Florida
Gainesville, Fl. 32611

Recent Major Programs:

The chemistry, development and genetics of the pigmentation of the sea whip, Leptogorgia virgulata, and its symbiotic relationship with the snail, Simnialena uniplicata.

Migration in marine crustaceans: causes of the mass single-file migration (queuing) in the spiney lobster (Panulirus argus).

The marine seagrass ecological system (seagrass ecosystem) consists of the seagrass plants and the organisms associated with them, as well as the habitat in which they all live. The study considers two central problems: the role of seagrass ecosystems in the world ocean, and the mechanisms and processes affecting the stability of the system. The effect of seasonal changes on primary productivity (amount of carbon and nitrogen fixed by the plants) and on plant biomass is being measured.

Description of the bottom dwelling (benthic) communities of invertebrates off the northern Gulf coast, primarily focusing on polychaete worms.

Study of gene activity in early development of the sea urchin; applying modern techniques of recombinant DNA technology to sea urchin embryos, specific genes are being isolated to identify factors involved in regulating specific gene transcription in early embryogenesis.

Genetic affinities between species of oysters. Native local oyster (Crassostrea virginica) can be crossed with the Caribbean oyster (C. rhizophorae). Another oyster (C. corteziensis), from Pacific coast of Central America, is supposed to be closely related to C. virginica, but hybridization has never been attempted. Crosses between all three species are being made; the cytology, physiology and morphology of the hybrids and parents will be compared.

Fertilization in sea urchins: basic mechanisms. Four problems are being considered: 1)how does the sperm enter the egg; 2)how do the sperm and egg nuclei find each other in the egg cytoplasm; 3)what triggers the synthesis and other activities leading to the development of an embryo (egg activation); 4)how does the successful sperm trigger the egg's defenses against other sperm to prevent polyspermy.

Micro-crustacean (harpactecoid copepod) communities are being examined, and the model disturbances are fecal mounds produced by acorn worms (Ptychodera flava). Analysis of this model should improve understanding of the general role of natural disturbances in the ecology of soft-bottom communities.

The effect of brown storm water runoff on an estuarine food chain. Model food chains are studied in artificial streams containing varying amounts of brown water runoff from cutover stands of pine. Study should lead to an estimate of the maximal load of runoff an estuary can carry without damaging normal trophic interactions.

The damaging effects of visible light on the retinas of fresh-water and marine fish. A variety of methods will be used to test two hypotheses: light-adaptation and light-damage lie on a continuum of light-effects on the retina; and 2)photo-receptors, normally anaerobic in light, cannot long tolerate this metabolically inefficient state and therefore die in constant light. These hypotheses are being tested in several ways. 1)Fish, light-adapted in "normal" ways, are assayed for rhodopsin content, ERG threshold and retinal integrity. The same lighting regimes are being extended into the "damaging" domain. The idea is to show that "normal" light-adaptation leads smoothly into damage. 2)The metabolic states of fish, treated as described above, will be assessed by measuring rates of protein synthesis and receptor turnover, and by using dyes and radioactive markers of metabolic state.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

Region IV

(Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida)

345 Court Land St., N.W.
Atlanta, Ga. 30365
Tel: (404) 881-4727

Regional Administrator: Rebecca W. Hanmer
Public Affairs Officer: Robert W. Humphries

Enforces federal pollution laws, gives grants to states and municipalities for pollution control programs, reviews environmental impact statements, monitors pollution and licenses municipal and industrial discharges.

FARM CREDIT SERVICE

Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia

P.O. Box 1499
Columbia, S.C. 29202
Tel: (803) 799-5000

Includes the Federal Land Bank Association and Production Credit Association which are federally-sponsored credit services for farmers and fishermen. Association banks throughout the U.S. act as lenders on an automonous basis; and although they were originally funded by the federal government, they are now owned by those they service. Banks located in maritime states normally make business and personal loans to full-time fishermen and business loans only to part-time fishermen. The above Federal Intermediate Credit Bank offers loans to the fishing industry in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

(Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida)

Office of the Regional Representative

1371 Peachtree St., N.E.
Rm. 624
Atlanta, Ga. 30367

Regional Representative: Kenneth English

Among the prime functions of the regional representative is maintenance of liaison with state and local officials; civic, public interest and business groups, and labor officials in regard to their problems and concerns involving the department.

Office of Public Information, Publications and Reports

Tel: (404) 881-4495
Room 317

Regional Information Director: Frances S. Ridgway

Coordinates and supervises the public information aspect of the department's programs; provides central contact point for public information media, and develops and maintains appropriate liaison with other agencies in connection with the work of the department.

Several Dept. of Labor agencies in the Region directly or indirectly relate to the commercial fishing industry. The Office of Public Information can generally direct inquiries of labor related matters to the correct department. The heads of the various agencies report directly to Washington, D.C.

The following are the primary agencies that direct federal programs and enforce labor regulations in the Region:

Employment Standards Administration

Tel: (404) 881-2818
Room 105

Regional Administrator: James E. Patching

Enforces the Fair Labor Standards Act, which includes minimum wage, discrimination, standards and women's welfare regulations. The Act specifically exempts commercial fishermen in most cases but does regulate dockside and fish plant labor. Several publications concerning the law are available from the Supt. of Documents or the Dept. of Labor regional offices. The primary publication concerning fisheries is "Seaman, Fishing, and Operations on Aquatic Products Under the Fair Labor Standards Act (WH Publication 1362)."

Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs

ESA-OFCCP, Room 111
Tel: (404) 881-4211

Assistant Regional Administrator: Donald E. Webster

Conducts the Federal government's program of equal employment opportunity among federal contractors and subcontractors under Executive Order 11246, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Act.

Office of Worker's Compensation Programs

E SA-OWCP, Room 105
Tel: (404) 881-7566

Assistant Regional Administrator: Floyd G. Ansley

Administers federal laws providing worker's compensation and related benefits to all federal and certain non-federal workers who may be injured on the job.

Wage & Hour Division

Tel: (404) 881-4801
Room 121

Assistant Regional Administrator: Richard D. Robinette

Administers federal laws dealing with minimum wages, maximum hours, overtime-pay, child labor and recordkeeping provisions; the Public Contracts Act; Service Contract Act; Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act; the Davis-Bacon and related acts which set wage and hour standards for construction projects involving federal funds; Federal Garnishment Law-Title III of the Consumer Protection Act, and the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act.

Director Regional BAT: Charles F. Steagald, Jr.

Assists training programs developed by individual companies and organizations. It does not have funds to subsidize programs and is purely advisory. Predecessor agencies have been involved in commercial fishing training. However, fishingboat operators and crews have been reluctant to provide accommodations and training that would result in part of the boat's revenue being used for pay.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Region IV

(Kentucky, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida)

1375 Peachtree St., N.E., 5th Floor
Atlanta, Georgia 30309
Tel: (404) 881-4943

Offers the following services to the fishing industry in the South Atlantic:

Assists canners, freezers and dealers of seafoods with fewer than 500 employees in becoming a supplier to the federal government.

Assists in improving business management skills for small onshore and fishing operations.

Assists in obtaining long term financing for shore operations for working capital, equipment and reality needs if the business meets the following requirements:

1. Employs 250 or fewer in the case of a manufacturer.

2. Has $22 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale frozen packaged fish and seafoods.

3. Has $14 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale canned fish and seafoods.

4. Has average annual receipts for its preceding three fiscal years do not exceeding $1 million if they operate fish farms, fish hatcheries or plant oysters.

5. Has $7.5 million or less in sales volume if they operate a retail seafood market.

The SBA also assists fishing operations by helping to obtain working capital loans, purchasing used boats of any size, purchase, construction or reconstruction of a fishing vessel (Size Standards Division is developing a standard for this industry. SBA office can obtain information if operator seeks assistance).

South Atlantic Regional Organizations

Coastal Plains Regional Commission

215 E. Bay St.
Charleston, S.C. 29401
Tel: (803) 724-4250

Executive Director: James Butler
Members: Dr. Claude Anderson, federal co-chairman appointed by the President; and governors John Dalton, Va.; James B. Hunt Jr., N.C.; James B. Edwards, S.C.; George Busbee, Ga.; and Reubin Askew, Fla.

A local, state and federal government commission for the economic development of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. It is one of eight in the U.S. authorized under Title V of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 and funded by the U.S. Economic Development Administration. Funds go for high priority regional projects in the areas of agriculture, forestry, environmental affairs, industrial development, marine resources and tourism.

Marine Resources Program

Program Director: Stanford Beebe

Maintains a Citizen's Advisory Committee responsible for pinpointing local problems facing the region. Each state has representatives; membership representation includes the commercial fisheries, state governments and universities. The Committee makes recommendations to the Commission and aids in establishing guidelines.

The following projects are being carried out by the Marine Resources Program:

1. Establishment of at least one seafood industrial park in each of the five states to provide fishermen and seafood processors all services at one location. Each park was to include a federally approved waste disposal system. The North Carolina Seafood Industrial Park at Wanchese Harbor and the park at Newport News, Va. are the only ones under construction. (See N.C. Management & Regulatory Organization). Feasibility studies have been completed in Virginia (Hampton & Newport News), South Carolina (final engineering has been completed for Port Royal), Georgia (preliminary engineering for Andrews Island site at Brunswick), and Florida (northern Gulf Coast most likely site).

2. A five-year program beginning in 1977 for the promotion of underutilized species (king mackerel, gray trout and rock shrimp) in 18 Midwestern cities, and overseas. The project is staffed by a home economist for media promotions and store demonstrations. The program is assigned to the Gulf & South Atlantic Fisheries Development Foundation.

3. Consultive services concerning waste disposal problems for seafood processors.

4. A program to acquaint bankers with growth coming in S.C. Seafood Industry Seminars held in each state in late 1980 to establish closer ties between industry and established lending institutions.

5. Sponsoring a National Conference on Seafood Industrial Parks in Spring of 1981 to promote awareness of need for re-building and centralization of shoreside facilities to accomodate growth and facilitate volume export shipments.

The Foundation aims to establish cooperative research and development plans for those fishery resources that the Trustees believe have commercial potential. The Foundation is a private, nonprofit corporation, working closely with state, federal and other public and private organizations that share similar goals and objectives.

The Foundation is primarily supported by the Coastal Plains Regional Commission, Economic Development Administration and National Marine Fisheries Service. Over 100 member organizations and participating firms contribute time and support, as do cooperating agencies and institutions. The Foundation does not intend to compete with state and academic institutions for existing financial resources, nor does it conduct research itself.

Foundation contracts are awarded to qualified individuals and organizations who use their expertise to ensure the wisest and most efficient use of time and money.

Of the Foundation's current programs, export marketing has continued to generate the greatest amount of interest. Trade missions have been completed in Africa, Europe, The Far East and South America. A variety of seafood technology activities are underway, including work on flaked fish, surimi and test canning of small coastal herrings. Marketing and product development efforts on traditional species, particularly shrimp, are also being conducted.

Expansion of the longline fishery, planning for seafood industrial parks, improving the handling and storage of traditional and non-traditional species, defining domestic and foreign transportation routes and economically assessing new fishery developments are all included in current Foundation programs. The most significant new effort is focused on diversifying the shrimp industry. Included in this activity is the modification of vessels for longlining, midwater trawling, purse seining, etc. Changeover of gear, modification in design, fuel efficiency changes and revised handling capabilities are all part of the effort to encourage diversification.

Established in 1973 to examine the feasibility and desirability of managing the shrimp fishery of the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida on a regional basis under the state-federal partnership program. In 1977, it instituted the first regional computerized catch and effort statistics system in the U.S. for both shrimp and finfish. Funds for the committee come from NMFS under the State-Federal Fisheries Management Program.

The Board of Trustees sets policy and determines programs that are carried out by the Committee.

Members: Dr. Parker Chesson, Chairman, President, College of the Albemarle; Dewitt Darden; Eugene Tomlinson, Southport mayor; Frank Furlough, commercial fisherman; Jerry Hardesty, agriculture extension service; Erie Haste, businessman; Gene Huntsman, National Marine Fisheries Service; Karen Gottori, New Hanover County Commissioner; Randolph Thomas, realtor and developer; Charles Wells, banker; Charles Evans, lawyer, mayor, legislator; Mayme Davenport, Washington County commissioner; William Gibbs, businessman; James Sykes, National Marine Fisheries Service.

Members appointed by the Governor, represent coastal interest including commercial fishing, engineering, agriculture, and land development. Set policy for a local-state program that protects and develops coastal natural resources.

Responsibilities include:

1. Developing land-use plans in 20 coastal counties. Twenty coastal counties and 34 municipalities have land-use plans. These plans serve as a guide for future development in the coastal area and assists the state and federal governments in making public investment decisions that affect population growth and economic development.

2. Designating areas of environmental concern. Areas include sand dunes, ocean beaches, shorelines and coastal wetlands. Coastal Area Management Act permits guide construction activity in these areas. The Dept. of Natural Resources, and the Community Development and Coastal Resources commissions jointly issue permits for major construction. Local governments issue permits for minor construction.

3. Administering the State Dredge and Fill Law.

4. Working with state Government to assure a coordinated and efficient system of permit administration in the coastal area.

Along with 35 other coastal states and territories, the Commission is funded by the Federal Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972.

Administration of the program is designated to the Secretary of the Dept. of Natural Resources and Community Development. Programs are carried out by the Commission.

Coastal Resources Advisory Council

Consists of 47 members representing each of the 20 coastal counties, the coastal Councils of Government, coastal cities, the technical marine science community, and state agencies involved in coastal programs. Advises the Commission and serves as liaison with local governments.

Fisheries Management Program

Research Director: Michael Street

Responsible for conducting research programs for the Commission. Programs include stock assessment and monitoring stocks for future fishery management projects.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency

National Marine Fisheries Service

NMFS has two separate organizations in the Southeast that serve the Gulf Coast and the South Atlantic regions. One is the Southeast Region organization, centered in St. Petersburg, Fla. The other is the Southeast Fisheries Center, headquartered in Miami, Fla. The two directors report to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) assistant administrator for NMFS in Washington, D.C.

For information on NMFS organization and administration in the Gulf Coast Region, see "South Atlantic Federal Regional Offices, Dept. of Commerce."

Southeast Fisheries Center

75 Virginia Beach Drive
Miami, Fl. 33149
Tel: (305) 361-5761

Center Director: Dr. William W. Fox, Jr.
Deputy Director: Dr. Richard J. Berry
Chief, Office of Program Planning, Evaluation and Administrative Support: Muriel Cole
Chief, Office of Technical and Information Management Services: H. Erich Groess
Asst. Director for Research: Dr. Herman E. Kumpf (Acting)
Asst. Director of Fishery Management: Dr. Albert C. Jones

The Center conducts research to provide research information for national and regional programs for NMFS and regional fishery management councils. Develops the scientific base required for: status of stocks and status of fisheries reports; environmental assessment and environmental impact statements for management plans; and international negotiations. Also conducts research for habitat conservation, aquaculture, fishery engineering, marine mammals, endangered species, fishery development, fishery oceanography, food science and fishery economics.

The following are research projects and programs conducted by the Southeast Fisheries Center on Gulf shrimp and finfish resources and for resource management:

1. Fisheries Analysis of the Gulf and Caribbean. Data for shrimp catch and effort and size are collected on the U.S. fishery off the Mexican coast. The data is analyzed to assess the contribution of these stocks to U.S. fishery interests and to monitor changes in stock size and productivity. Data used to formulate shrimp management plans.

2. Determination of the volume of groundfish and shellfish discarded by commercial shrimp fleets operating in the U.S. Gulf of Mexico.

3. Determination of seasonal finfish and shellfish size and weight discarded by shrimp fishermen.

4. Determination of the volume of undersized shrimp discarded by the shrimp fleet.

5. Development of selective shrimp trawls to reduce the sizeable bycatch.

6. Development of shrimp trawls that will not catch sea turtles.

7. Development of an off-bottom shrimp trawl that can fish in obstructed waters.

8. Development of an electric shrimp trawl.

9. Assessment of deepwater shrimp resources.

10. Preparatory study for development of bio-socio-economic models of the Gulf Coast shrimp fishery.

11. A graduate program in environmental studies and shrimp biology and mariculture.

Miami, Fl. 33149
Tel: (305) 361-5761

Combines data from many sources into an integrated information management system to provide decision makers and scientists with the necessary information to manage the Southeast fishery resources. To accomplish this, TIMS manages a regional integrated information management system and provides automated data processing analytical capabilities to system users; manages an integrated fishery statistics and data acquisition program to provide a full range of biological,fishery, economic, and sociological information; and provides standardization for development of experimental designs, sampling methods, data acquisition and analyses and surveys.

PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS

Production Credit Associations (PCAs) extend credit to over half a million farmers, ranchers, and fishermen. There are 425 PCAs throughout the United States, all of them owned by their borrowers. Production Credit Associations make variable rate, simple interest loans to eligible full-time and part-time fishermen. Commercial fishermen may receive short term credit or loans with maturities up to 15 years.

The following Land Banks offer loans to the fishing industry in the Gulf Coast:

OSHA sets and enforces standards for industries involved in interstate commerce. The three industry areas regulated are classified as general, construction and maritime. General industries include seafood processing plants. Maritime standards apply only to dockside occupations. Fishingboats are exempt from OSHA standards.

The Bureau assists training programs developed by individual companies and organizations. It does not have funds to subsidize programs and is purely advisory. Predecessor agencies have been involved in commercial fishing training. However, fishingboat operators and crews have been reluctant to provide accommodations and training that would result in part of the boat's revenue being used for pay.

Offers the following services to the fishing industry in the Gulf area:

Assists canners, freezers and dealers of seafoods with fewer than 500 employees in becoming a supplier to the federal government.

Assists in improving business management skills for small onshore and fishing operations.

Assists in obtaining long term financing for shore operations for working capital, equipment and realty needs if the business meets the following requirements:

1. Employs 250 or fewer in the case of a manufacturer.

2. Has $22 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale frozen packaged fish and seafoods.

3. Has $14 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale canned fish and seafoods.

4. Average annual receipts for its preceding three fiscal years to not exceed $1 million volume if they operate fish farms, fish hatcheries or oyster plants.

5. Has $7.5 million or less in sales volume if they operate a retail seafood market.

The SBA also assists fishing operations by helping to obtain working capital loans, purchasing used boats of any size, purchase, construction or reconstruction of a fishing vessel (Size Standards Division is developing a standard for this industry. SBA offices can obtain information if operator seeks assistance.)

Scientific & Statistical Committee

The Regional Council is required to maintain this committee under the 200-mile limit law. Its duties include providing scientific and technical advice to the Council on the development of fishery management policy and on establishing priorities, goals, objectives and management units of fishery management plans or amendments.

Also maintains a list of experts in fisheries management from which the Council selects consultants. Members are appointed by the Council for two-year terms. The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council's Scientific and Statistical Committee is divided into several sub-committees dealing with various aspects of fishery management and various species of fisheries. When hearing specific issues on specific fisheries, the special committee for that fishery meets with the standing committee.

Director: Harold D. Howse, Ph.D.
Assistant Director, Fisheries Research and Management: Thomas D. McIlwain, Ph.D.
Assistant Director, Administration and Academic Affairs: David W. Cook, Ph.D.

A non-profit marine research organization owned by Mississippi. Funded by the state and federal agencies including the National Marine Fisheries Service, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Environmental Protection Agency, Bureau of Land Management, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, the National Science Foundation and Sea Grant.

Conducts commercial fisheries research and advises the Miss. Bureau of Marine Resources on marine resources. Programs include investigating fisheries resources, compiling biological and environmental data, collecting and analyzing shrimp population data for management background and compiling and analyzing catch and effort data on bait and subsistence fisheries.

Also, provides information and technical assistance to developing fisheries and investigates biological oyster problems of local fisheries. The laboratory operates a seed oyster hatchery to research improved oyster stocks and provides a mariculture advisory service to bait shrimp dealers.

Past research of immediate value to fishermen was a blue crab industry investigation. Another program conducted in 1978 was a fisheries assessment and monitoring project for sea trout, spot, croaker, red fish, shrimp and crab.

Also was analyzing the menhaden fleet's catch and effort for the National Marine Fisheries Service. Regional management plans written by the laboratory include shrimp and menhaden. Copies of the plans are available from the Laboratory.

The Laboratory also provides a free quality control sampling service to Miss. seafood processors.

Publishes newsletters and reports of trade meetings and research.

National Oceanic & Atmospheric Administration

National Marine Fisheries Service

NMFS has two separate organizations in the Southwest that serve California, Arizona, Hawaii, Nevada, American Samoa, Guam, Northern Mariana Islands and Trust Territory of Pacific Islands. The Southwest Region is centered in Terminal Island, Calif. The two directors report to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) assistant administrator for the National Marine Fisheries Service in Washington, D.C.

Southwest Region

Headquarters

La Jolla Laboratory

The Laboratory conducts multidisciplinary research to support the Pacific and Western Pacific Fishery Management Council for the management and allocation of coastal and high seas fishery resources, and assists the international commissions on the allocation of worldwide tuna resources and the development of tuna fishery management strategies. Also is developing methods to reduce propoise mortality in tuna purse seining operations; is conducting studies on the biology and population sizes of important commercial and recreational fisheries of the California Current and conducting economic studies to determine the impact of domestic and foreign fishing.

Honolulu Laboratory

P.O. Box 3830
2570 Dole St.
Honolulu, Hi. 96812
Tel: (808) 946-2181

Director: Richard S. Shomura

The Laboratory conducts research to determine the abundance and disribution of central and western Pacific fishery resources, assesses the commercial and recreational fisheries of the northwestern Hawaiian Islands, conducts studies to develop the skipjack fishery and assists the Pacific Tuna Development Foundation for the development of tuna resources in the central, southern and western Pacific Ocean.

Also supports the Western Pacific Regional Council for the management and allocation of fishery resources, develops economic and statistical data for the optimal management of central and western Pacific fishery resources and develops management strategies for all fishing resources of the western Pacific.

Tiburon Laboratory

3150 Paradise Dr.
Tiburon, Ca. 94920
Tel: (415) 556-0565

Director: Norman J. Abramson

The Laboratory conducts research related to coastal California recreational and commercial fisheries, including their ecological and environmental interactions. Studies include the physiological effects of man-induced pollution, marine eco-systems associated with coastal fish communities, the socio-economic impact of recreational and commercial fishing on northern California fisheries, underutilized fishery resources for development and the early mortality of striped bass.

Pacific Environmental Group
c/o Fleet Numerical Weather Central Naval Port Graduate School
Monterey, Calif. 93940
Tel: (408) 373-3331

Chief: Gunter R. Seckel

The Group conducts research in support of the National Marine Fisheries Service mission. Conducts marine environmental studies, provides portrayals and interpretations of oceanographic and meteorological data and investigates interrelations for use in fisheries and environmental forecasting.

Based on these studies and activities it provides assistance in the development of marine environmental monitoring programs, records oceanic and atmospheric data for climatological and monitoring studies and develops long-term ocean forecasting techniques, models, and indices.

Research Vessels

The Townsend Cromwell, Honolulu and the David Starr Jordan, La Jolla, operate in the Southwest Pacific and report to the Pacific Marine Center in Seattle.

Sea Grant Programs

Sea Grant is a major part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) in the Dept. of Commerce. Its activities are funded jointly by the Federal government and by colleges and universities. Its marine advisory services offer a broad range of information concerning the nation's fisheries to recreational and commercial fishermen, fish processors and others.

FARM CREDIT SERVICE

Includes the Federal Land Bank Association and Production Credit Association which are federally-sponsored credit services for farmers and fishermen. Association banks throughout the U.S. act as lenders on an autonomous basis; and although they were originally funded by the Federal government, they are now funded by those they service. Banks located in maritime states normally make business and personal loans to full-time fishermen and business loans only to part-time fishermen. The following Land Bank offers loans to the fishing industry in the southwest area:

Region IX

(Az., Ca., Hi., Nv., Guam and American Samoa)

Tel: (415) 556-2062

Director: John S. Rynd (N. Ca., Nv., Hi., Guam and American Samoa)
Director: Domenic Ziccardi (S. Ca. and Az.)

Makes unannounced inspections of food processing facilities for sanitary conditions and labeling practices. It also impounds fish suspected of having high mercury content until laboratory analyses have been made.

The voluntary Shellfish Sanitation Program is administered by the bureau. This program waives FDA inspection for shellfish dealers in lieu of state management. The primary reason is to enable states to close shellfishing areas when pollution occurs rather than have contaminated shellfish harvested and impounded only when it is involved in interstate commerce. States inspect harvesting sites for various pollution, including red tide blooms. They also inspect depuration facilities used to cleanse shellfish.

The following are state offices responsible for issuing shellfish shipper certificates.

DEPT. OF LABOR

(Az., Nv., Hi., Ca., Guam, American Samoa and Pacific Trust Territories)

450 Golden Gate Ave.
San Francisco, Calif. 94102
Tel: (415) 556-3423

Regional Information Director: Joe Kirkbride

Several Dept. of Labor agencies directly or indirectly relate to the fishing industry. The Offices of Public Information can generally direct inquiries of labor related matters to the correct department. The Region does not have a regional director. The heads of the various departments report directly to Washington, D.C.

The following are the primary departments that direct federal programs and enforce labor regulations:

Employments Standards Administration

Regional Administrator: William C. Buhl

Enforces the Fair Labor Standards Act, which includes minimum wage and discrimination standards. The Act specifically exempts commercial fishermen in most cases but does regulate dockside and fish plant labor. Several publications concerning the law are available from the Supt. of Documents or the Dept. of Labor area offices. The primary publication concerning the fisheries is "Seamen, Fishing and Operations on Aquatic Products Under the Fair Labor Standards Act" (WH Publication 1361).

This section of the Labor Dept. is divided into the Wage & Hour Div. office of Federal Contract Compliance Program and Office of Workmen's Compensation.

Wage and Hour Div.

OSHA sets and enforces standards for industries involved in interstate commerce. The three industry areas regulated are classified as general, construction and maritime. General industries include seafood processing plants. Maritime standards apply only to dockside occupations. Fishingboats are exempt from OSHA standards.

Bureau of Apprenticeship & Training

Regional Director: Patrick D. Burke

The Bureau assists training programs developed by individual companies and organizations. It does not have funds to subsidize programs and is purely advisory. Predecessor agencies have been involved in commercial fishing training. However, fishingboat operators and crews have been reluctant to provide accommodations and training that would result in part of the boat's revenue being used to pay trainees.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

450 Golden Gate Ave.
Box 36044
San Francisco, Ca. 94102
Tel: (415) 556-7487

Regional Administrator: Robert B. Strauss

Offers the following services to the fishing industry in the South Pacific area:

Assists canners, freezers and dealers of seafoods with fewer than 500 employees in becoming a supplier to the federal government.

Assists in improving business management skills for small onshore and fishing operations.

Assists in obtaining long term financing for shore operations for working capital, equipment and realty needs if the business meets the following requirements:

1. Employs 250 or fewer in the case of a manufacturer.

2. Has $22 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale frozen packaged fish and seafoods.

3. Has $14 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale canned fish and seafoods.

4. Has $9.5 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale unpacked fresh or frozen seafoods.

5. Has $275,000 or less in sales volume if they operate fish farms, fish hatcheries or oyster plants.

6. Has $7.5 million or less in sales volume if they operate a retail seafood market.

The SBA also assists fishing operations by helping to obtain working capital loans, purchasing used boats of any size, purchase, construction or reconstruction of a fishing vessel under five net tons. (Note: See National Marine Fisheries Service for financial assistance for building or reconstructing a boat over five net tons.)

Tel: (916) 445-5706

Members: Elizabeth L. Venrick, Ph.D., president; Abel C. Galletti, vice-president; Sherman Chickering, Norman B. Livermore, Raymond S. Dasmann.

Members appointed from various parts of the state for six-year terms by the Governor. Authorized by the Legislature to establish commercial fishing regulations. Sets policy for the Fish and Game Dept. and holds hearings prior to setting fish and game rules.

Dept. of Fish & Game

1416 Ninth St.
Sacramento, Ca. 95814
Tel: (916) 445-3535

Director: E. Charles Fullerton
Deputy Director: Eugene V. Toffoli
Chief of Operations: James Lieby

Responsible for administering policies and regulations set by the Fish and Game Commission. Has emergency power to change or alter regulations under certain circumstances. Issues commercial fishing licenses. The limited licenses for the herring abalone and seaweed herring roe fisheries are issued by bids. Also licenses fish canners, processors, wholesalers, dealers, brokers, and importers, and aquaculture operations including oyster farms.

The Department is funded by hunting and fishing license revenues, court fines and commercial fishing taxes. Half of the fines and forfeitures collected as a result of violations of the Fish and Game Code and Commission regulations are deposited in the Fish and Game Preservation Fund, the other half goes to the county in which the offense was committed.

Conducts sports and commercial fishing research funded in part by the Federal government.

Marine Research Committee

The nine members are appointed by the Governor for four-year terms. Five members represent the commercial fisheries. Empowered to employ personnel or contract for commercial fisheries research and development. Funded by a special tax on fish dealers and packers. The Committee was expected to be dissolved in 1979 and its work was to be taken over by the Pacific Fisheries Management Council.

Anadromous Fisheries Branch

Tel: (916) 445-8231

Chief: Paul Jensen

Conducts research to estimate annual commercial ocean salmon runs. Data is used by the Pacific Fisheries Management Council to set management plans. Also conducts fish ladder and fishway programs.

Inland Fisheries Branch

Tel: (916) 445-5186

Chief: Leonard Fisk

Resoonsible for regulating and managing freshwater fish.

Marine Resources Branch

Tel: (916) 445-8383

Chief: Edward Greenhood
Assistant Chief, Offshore: Clarkson E. Blunt
Assistant Chief, Inshore: Emil J. Smith

Responsible for analyzing marine research and data and developing research programs for managing the commercial fisheries. Also recommends legislation concerning fisheries management.

Advisor: John Radovich

Conducts research concerning all ocean activities. Programs in commercial fishing include examining methods to determine the population of market squid, assessing San Francisco Bay crab populations and aquaculture possibilities of abalone, oysters and crabs.

A non-profit organization developed to do practical research for the Albacore Tuna fishery. It is a joint effort with the National Marine Fisheries Service, with NMFS providing the research vessels and publishing a yearly report on research findings. The Foundation provides funds for chartering commercial fishing vessels and the expenses of research projects. The Foundation is supported by contributions from the processors, who pay $11.75 a ton on all processed domestic albacore tuna. Programs have included tagging, exploratory fishing in the Midway area for albacore, migratory patterns and efforts to extend the fishing season. Membership includes six directors from both the Western Fishboat Association and from the major canners of albacore tuna.

The Board of Directors sets policy for the Institute and determines the areas of research to be explored. The members are elected by the members for three year terms and meet quarterly. The officers are elected for one year terms. The Advisory members make recommendations in their areas of expertise.

The Institute is an international non-profit organization, tax-exempt research and educational organization formed to determine the research needs of the small South Pacific islands, including problems such as offshore communications, food cultivation and processing and attempting to achieve a balance between protection of the environment and development of natural resources.

They provide technical, professional and financial assistance to small islands, and assist the underdeveloped and developing islands in economic and resource development.

They provide for the funding of projects and serve as intermediary between island people and the more industrially advanced countries.

Conducts seminar panels on commercial fishing, aquaculture, mariculture and seawood farming, tropical and subtropical flora and fauna, textiles, handicrafts and seashells, island agriculture and silviculture, tourism and recreation, communications and transportation, food industry and food resources, indigenous energy production and organization and implementation.

The Institute was formed in 1977 and their major project was a computer based aquaculture analysis system that is located in the Seattle Office. Also submitted papers to the World Mariculture Society. Thirty-four seminars are scheduled for this coming year.

Publications on Hawaii Fisheries

The following publications deal primarily with Hawaiian commercial fisheries and related marine activities. Unless an address is noted, publications are available from sources listed in this section. Publications listed in other sections may also contain information on the state's fisheries. Prices are noted when available.

A number of technical and informational reports on various fisheries are available from the fishery/wildlife department of each state.

Conducts research to support national and regional fisheries programs. It develops the scientific base required for status of stocks and status of fisheries reports, environmental assessments and environmental impact statements for management plans and international negotiations. Research also includes habitat conservation, aquaculture, fishery engineering, marine mammals, endangered species, fishery development, fishery oceanography, food science, fishery economics and fishery utilization.

Seattle Laboratory

Director: Dr. William Aron

Responsible for conducting the Center's research projects through the following divisions.

Resource Assessment and Conversation Engineering Div.

Tel: (206) 442-7719

Director: Dr. Murray L. Hayes

Conducts research and provides information on the distribution, abundance and biology of exploited and unexploited fish and shellfish of the North Pacific and Eastern Bering Sea.

Kodiak Investigation - Research
Tel: (907) 487-4961

Director: Robert J. Wolotira

Conducts shellfish assessment in the offshore waters of Alaska.

Resource Ecology and Fisheries Management Div.

Tel: (206) 442-7719

Acting Director: Dr. Richard Marasco

Provides information on the impact of commercial and recreational fishing on marine resources for the development of management recommendations and foreign fishing negotiations.

National Marine Mammal Laboratory

7600 Sand Point Way, N.E.
Seattle, Wash. 98115
Tel: (206) 442-4711

Director: Dr. Michael F. Tillman

Conducts research on the principal species of marine mammals to maintain population levels. Information obtained is used by national and international agencies as a basis for management decisions concerning marine mammals.

Fisheries Data & Management Systems Div.

Director: Donald D. Worland

Provides information on the condition of internationally-exploited fishery resources of the Northeast Pacific Ocean and Bering Sea.

Coastal Zone & Estuarine Studies Div.

Director: Dr. Wesley J. Ebel

Conducts research concerning anadromous fish, particularly salmon and steelhead, in the Columbia and Snake River systems. Studies include the effects of dams and other water development on fish migrations. Also conducts salt water aquaculture studies with emphasis on salmon.

Environmental Conservation Div.

Director: Dr. Donald C. Malins

Conducts research to determine the impact of environmental changes and effects of pollution on marine resources in the Northwest. Research results are used to analyze potential effects from environmental changes on living resources.

Utilization Research Div.

Director: John Spinelli

Assists in solving problems in fisheries technology and utilization for the commercial fishing industry and consumer. Provides technical information on the composition and the nutritional value of fish and fishery products and on the methods of safe handling and improved quality and preservation. Promotes conservation of fishery resources by reducing waste and improving use of resources harvests.

Kodiak Investigations - Utilization

Primary emphasis is on fishery utilization and related industry problems in the Alaska area. Conducts studies related to product safety to provide a basis for utilization options for linving marine resources and to assist the industry in overcoming problems due to resource failures, product contamination and pollution.

Auke Bay Laboratory

P.O. Box 155
Auke, Alaska 99615
Tel: (907) 789-7231

Director: Dr. William A. Smoker

Conducts research on the biology, ecology and population dynamics of fish and shellfish in southeast and central Alaska marine waters. Undertakes studies to determine the effects on marine resources of environmental alteration resulting from specific industrial developments throughout Alaskan coastal areas. Carries out research on Alaskan salmon resources, with emphasis on ocean ranching to supplement depressed natural stocks.

Research Vessels

The following are NMFS research vessels operating in the Pacific: Oceanographer, 303', Seattle; Discoverer, 303', Seattle; Surveyor, 292', Seattle; Fairweather, 231', Seattle; McArthur, 175', Seattle; Davidson, Seattle; John N. Cobb, fisheries vessel, Seattle; Oregon, Seattle; Townsend Cromwell, Honolulu; David Starr Jordan, La Jolla; Miller Freeman, Seattle; Chapman, 127; Seattle; and the Murre II, Juneau. All research vessels report to the Pacific Marine Center in Seattle.

Food & Drug Administration

(Wa., Or., Id. and Ak.)

909 First Ave.
Seattle, Wash. 98104
Tel: (206) 442-5300

Regional Director: James Swanson

Responsible for enforcing a variety of federal legislation and programs to assure that all food shipped interstate, including seafood, is safe for human consumption.

The regional office is responsible for investigation of processing facilities and the administration of the voluntary state-federal-industry cooperative Shellfish Sanitation Program. It also inspects interstate shipments of fish and fish caught beyond three miles offshore.

Investigations Branch

Tel: (206) 442-5319

Director: James A. Davis

Makes unannounced inspections of food processing facilities for sanitary conditions and labeling practices. It also impounds fish suspected of having high mercury content until laboratory tests have been made.

The voluntary Shellfish Sanitation Program is administered by the branch. This program waives FDA inspection for shellfish dealers in lieu of state management. Primary reason is to enable states to close shellfishing areas when pollution occurs rather than to have contaminated shellfish harvested and impounded only when it is involved in interstate commerce. The states inspect harvesting sites for various pollution, including red tide blooms. They also inspect depuration facilities used to cleanse clams and other shellfish.

The following state officers are responsible for issuing state shellfish shipper certificates required in states participating in the program:

Several Dept. of Labor agencies in this Region directly or indirectly relate to the fishing industry. The Office of Information can generally direct inquiries on labor related matters to the correct department. The Region does not have regional directors. The heads of the various agencies report directly to Washington, D.C.

The following are the primary agencies that direct federal programs and enforce labor regulations in this Region:

Employment Standards Administration

Regional Administrator: Joe C. Garcia

Enforces the Fair Labor Standards Act, which includes minimum wage. The Act specifically exempts commercial fishermen in most cases but does regulate dockside and fish plant labor. Several publications concerning the law are available from the U.S. Supt. of Documents or the Dept. of Labor Regional Offices. The primary publications concerning fisheries is "Seamen, Fishing and Operations on Aquatic Products Under the Fair Labor Standards Act (WH Publication 1362)."

This section of the Labor Dept. is divided into the Wage & Hour Div., Office of Federal Contract, Compliance Program, Office of Worker's Compensation.

Only the Wage & Hour Div. maintains area offices:

Federal Office Bldg. Room 8014, 909 1st Ave.
Seattle, Wa. 98174

Tel: (206) 442-5286

Director: Vernon Nilsen

The Bureau assists training programs developed by individual companies and organizations. It does not have funds to subsidize programs and is purely advisory. Predecessor agencies have been involved in commercial fishing training. However, fishingboat operators and crews have been reluctant to provide accommodations and training that would result in part of the boat's revenue being used for pay.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

710 2nd St.
Seattle, Wa. 98109
Tel: (206) 442-5676

Regional Administrator: (Vacant)

Offers the following services to the fishing industry in the Northwest:

Assists canners, freezers and dealers of seafoods with fewer than 500 employees in becoming a supplier to the federal government.

Assists in improving business management skills for small onshore and fishing operations.

Assists in obtaining long term financing for shore operations for working capital, equipment and realty needs if the business meets the following requirements:

1. Employs 250 or fewer in the case of a manufacturer.

2. Has $22 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale frozen packaged fish and seafoods.

3. Has $14 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale canned fish and seafoods.

4. Has $9.5 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale unpacked fresh or frozen seafoods.

5. Has $275,000 or less in sales volume if they operate fish farms, fish hatcheries or oyster plants.

6. Has $7.5 million or less in sales volume if they operate a retail seafood market.

The SBA also assists fishing operations by helping to obtain working capital loans, purchasing used boats of any size, purchase, construction or reconstruction of a fishing vessel under five net tons. (Note: See National Marine Fisheries Service for financial assistance for building or reconstructing a boat over five net tons.)

The Council has eight advisory subpanels composed of persons involved in the fisheries. The Council frequently calls upon members of the subpanels for advice in their area of expertise. The Council has produced management plans and environmental impact statements for the following Pacific coast fisheries:

Commercial and recreational salmon fisheries off the coasts of Washington, Oregon and California.

Northern anchovy fishery.

It is in the process of actively developing management plans for the following fisheries:

Pacific coast groundfish fishery.

Pink shrimp fishery of Washington, Oregon, and California.

Eastern Pacific billfish and oceanic shark fisheries.

ALASKA COMMERCIAL FISHERIES ENTRY COMMISSION

Pouch KB
Juneau, Ak. 99801
Tel: (907) 586-3456

Chairman and Commissioner: Robert J. Simon
Commissioners: John Williams and Burke Riley
Director of Administration & Operations: Derrill Johnson

Issues limited entry permits and conducts research aimed at regulating Alaska's commercial fishing industry. The Commission surveys and initiates research into fisheries to access biological management. Determines fisheries in need of limited entry and implements programs. Allows several months to a year for field investigations, discussions with fishermen, and social, biological and economic research related to the species before limiting a fishery.

Entry permits and interim-use permits are issued by this Commission. Entry permits may be issued over the maximum number of permits established only if a fisherman would suffer significant hardship. Interim-use permits are those issued while a permit application is pending. The Commission makes recommendations to the legislature concerning fisheries including controlling permit leasing, tightening specifications for emergency transfers and permit regulations or amendments.

The Commission publishes an annual report.

The following are Alaskan commercial fishing areas and the kind of gear that are limited in number by the Commission.

Southeastern Alaska

Salmon purse seine, drift gillnet, hand troll, power troll, roe herring, and herring gill net, (allowed nowhere else in Alaska).

Yakutat

Salmon set gillnet.

Prince William Sound

Salmon purse seine, drift gillnet and set gillnet, herring sac roe seine and gill net.

Cook Inlet

Kuskokwim

Salmon gillnet.

Kotzebue

Salmon set gillnet.

Lower Yukon

Salmon gillnet.

Upper Yukon

Salmon gillnet and salmon fishwheel.

Norton Sound

Salmon set gillnet.

Limited entry licenses are priveleges which may be sold by one fisherman to another. The following is a listing of 1979 average prices received by fishermen for licenses sold, and the specific areas the licenses are valid. Licenses are renewable each year.

Southeastern Alaska

Salmon Purse seine license, $39,917; Drift gillnet, $41,763; Salmon power troll, $26,610.

Yakutat

Set gillnet, $22,500.

The Commissioner administers the department and has overall responsibility for its programs. The Deputy Commissioner of Program Management is responsible for administering funds, coordinating programs with other agencies and supervising. Also responsible for the management of fish and game resources, and supervises resource management. The Alaska Board of Fisheries sets policy for the Dept., sets seasons, establishes refuges and sanctuaries, sets quota limits, methods and means of fishing and establishes markings and identifications. Also classifies fish as predators, commercial or sport; engages in research through the Department, cooperates with other state agencies and regulates the seasons for taking of aquatic plants.

The Board Members are appointed by the governor for four-year terms and have two regulatory meetings and three public hearings annually.

Supports the Shore Erosion Protection Demonstration Project, the Cost/Benefit Investment Modeling Project, and the Erosion Damage Project. (See "Great Lakes and Marine Waters Center" under Michigan Independent Organization and Institutions).

Also approves applications for construction in waterway zones, inspects approved construction, conducts surveillance for unauthorized work, establishes danger zones and investigates obstructions and complaints.

DEPT. OF COMMERCE

International Trade Administration

The following District offices are active in assisting fish marketing domestically and abroad. Provide publications on domestic and export marketing. Advise on duty for U.S. export commodities in foreign countries and handle the Schedule B form, which must be filed for any exports exceeding $500. Also cooperate closely with the Small Business Administration aiding local manufacturers of marine equipment.

Great Lakes Sea Grant Program

Sea Grant is a major part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) in the Dept. of Commerce. Its activities are funded jointly by the federal government and by colleges and universities. Its marine advisory services offer a broad range of information concerning the nation's fisheries to recreational and commercial fishermen, fish processors and others.

Administration of the Michigan Sea Grant Program is shared between the University of Michigan and Michigan State University. The director of the program is also the director of the Great Lakes and Marine Waters Center at the University of Michigan. (See "Great Lakes and Marine Waters Center (GLMWC)" under "Great Lakes Regional Organizations"). The Great Lakes Resource Management Program (Coastal Zone Laboratory) and the Great Lakes Research Div. provide data and technical support to the Sea Grant Program. The assistant director also holds a position in the Great Lakes Research Div. (GLMWC). The associate director is also the director of the Institute of Water research at Michigan State University. Management decisions are shared among these three individuals.

The program for 1979-1980 includes 34 projects involving 35 faculty, 25 research staff and 41 students from 20 departments at UM, MSU and Northern Michigan University. In addition, two commercial fishing companies, the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, Mich. Dept. of Natural Resources and Mich. State Police are involved in Sea Grant projects.

Recent Major Programs

The following are recent major programs designed to provide information for management of the Great Lakes fisheries and to provide fishermen with knowledge to better handle their catches:

Identification of current spawning grounds and prediction of potential spawning areas for yellow perch in southern Lake Michigan with estimates of early recruitment.

Compensatory response of lake trout and whitefish to exploitation.

Competition between juvenile salmon and trout in Great Lakes states.

Developing a model commercial fisheries statute for the Great Lakes States.

Increasing the economic value of Michigan Commercial Fishery through utilization of carp.

PCB's, DDT compounds and dieldrin levels in carp.

Renewed use of underutilized species of Great Lakes fish for animal feed.

Fishery economics and marketing.

Evaluation of small-mesh trap nets for the harvest of round white fish (Prosopium Cylinoraceum), an underutilized species.

Offers the following services to the fishing industry in the Great Lakes area:

Assists canners that have a maximum of 500 employees and freezers and dealers of seafoods fewer than 250 employees in becoming suppliers to the federal government.

Assists in improving business management skills for small onshore and fishing operations.

Assists in obtaining long term financing for shore operations for working capital, equipment and realty needs if the business meets the following requirements:

1. Employs 250 or fewer in the case of a manufacturer, 500 or fewer in the case of food canners.

2. Has $22 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale frozen packaged fish and seafoods.

3. Has $14 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale canned fish and seafoods.

4. Has $9.5 million or less in sales volume if they wholesale unpacked fresh or frozen seafoods.

5. Has $275,000 or less in sales volume if they operate fish farms, fish hatcheries or plant oysters.

6. Has $7.5 million or less in sales volume if they operate a retail seafood market.

The SBA also assists fishing operations by helping to obtain working capital loans, purchasing used boats of any size and purchase and construction or reconstruction of a fishing vessel under five net tons if the annual sales volume is less than $2 million. (Note: See National Marine Fisheries Service for financial assistance for building or reconstructing a boat over five net tons.)

The principal coordinating agency for federal, state and local agencies having planning responsibilities in the field of water and related land resources in the upper Mississippi River Basin and the Souris-Red-Rainy rivers region. A Comprehensive Coordinated Joint Plan covering the two basins has resulted in the following:

Souris-Red-Rainy Regional Program

Directed by a committee that advises on water related studies and planning. Also serves as a technical advisor to the Buffalo River Watershed program, a two year regional water resources management study organized by the Minn. Dept. of Natural Resources.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul Study

A two year project which evolved from the Federal Water Resources Planning Act of 1965 and the 1972 Amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. The Section 209 provision reflects the recognition by the Congress that a comprehensive approach was required, within river basins and metropolitan regions, to coordinate and integrate Federal, state, local and private water resource plans and programs.

Final report: Minneapolis-St. Paul Water and Land: Future Perspectives and Plans, Level B Study Report and Environmental Impact Statement.

The Great River Study

Preparing recommendations for a river management strategy for the entire upper Mississippi River. Also prepares recommendations for dredging procedures to be used by the Corps of Engineers.

FARM CREDIT SERVICE

Includes the Federal Land Bank Association and Production Credit Association which are federally-sponsored credit services for farmers and fishermen. Association banks throughout the U.S. act as lenders on an autonomous basis; and although they were originally funded by the federal government, they are now owned by those they service. Banks located in maritime states normally make business and personal loans to fulltime fishermen and business loans only to part-time fishermen.

The following Land Banks offer loans to the fishing industry in the inland states:

Several Dept. of Labor agencies in the Region directly or indirectly relate to the commercial fishing industry. The Office of Public Information can generally direct inquiries of labor related matters to the correct department. The heads of the various agencies report directly to Washington, D.C.

The following are the primary agencies that direct federal programs and enforce labor regulations in the Region:

Employment Standards Administration

Enforces the Fair Labor Standards Act, which includes minimum wage, discrimination standards and women's welfare regulations. The Act specifically exempts commercial fishermen in most cases but does regulate dockside and fish plant labor. Several publications concerning the law are available from the Supt. of Documents or the Dept. of Labor regional offices. The primary publication concerning fisheries is "Seamen, Fishing, and Operations on Aquatic Products Under the Fair Labor Standards Act (WH Publication 1362)."

This section of the Labor Dept. is divided into the Wage & Hour Div., Office of Federal Contract Compliance Program, Office of Workers' Compensation and Women's Bureau.

The following is a list of the ESA and Wage & Hour Div. offices serving the Inland River System area:

Occupational Safety and Health Administration

OSHA sets and enforces standards for industries involved in interstate commerce. The three industry areas regulated are classified as general, construction and maritime. General industries include seafood processing plants. Maritime standards apply only to dockside occupations. Fishingboats are exempt from OSHA standards.

The following is a list of OSHA regional offices. See "Regional Offices" for addresses.

Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training

The Bureau assists training programs developed by individual companies and organizations. It does not have funds to subsidize programs and is purely advisory. Predecessor agencies have been involved in commercial fishing training. However, fishboat operators and crews have been reluctant to provide accommodations and training that would result in part of the boat's revenue being used for pay. The following is a list of the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training offices serving the Inland River System area (see "Regional Offices" for addresses):

Business & Industrial Loan Div.

Director:John A. Swinnea Jr.

Guarantees loans to all types of businesses and industries, including the seafood processing industry, to benefit rural areas under the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act.

Any legal entity, including individuals, public and private organizations and federally recognized Indian tribal groups are eligible to borrow. The basic purposes of the loans include developing or financing business or industry, increasing employment, or controlling or abating pollution.

Uses include:

1. Financing business and industrial construction, conversion, acquisition and modernization.

2. Financing purchase and development of land, easements, equipment, facilities, leases, machinery, supplies, or materials, and custom feed lots.

3. Supplying working capital and funds for reasonable fees and charges.

The guaranteed loan is an assurance to protect the investor, and may cover up to 90 of the principal and interest of the guaranteed note. The guarantee is 1 of the principal loan amount multiplied by the percent of guarantee, paid one time only at the time the loan note guarantee is issued. Collateral is required and the applicant is required to provide equity, ordinarily a minimum of 10 equity at loan closing. Final maturity of the guaranteed loan does not exceed: a. 30 years for land, buildings and permanent fixtures. b. 15 years for machinery or equipment; or life of the machinery or equipment, whichever is shorter. c. 7 years for working capital.

Interest is due annually after the loan is closed. All or part of a loan may be repaid before it is due, without penalty. Interest rates may be fixed or variable and will be determined by the lender and the borrower for guaranteed loans. Interest rates on loans made by the FHA are computed on cost of Treasury borrowing plus an increment to cover administrative costs. The rate is 5 for public agencies borrowing to install community facilities necessary for community development.

Emergency Loan Div.

Director: William Krause

Conducts several disaster loan programs for which marine fishermen are eligible under certain circumstances. Interpretation of laws provide that marine fishermen are "considered to be farmers for purposes of loans if fish and shellfish are grown under controlled conditions." Under the Emergency Loan Program, assistance can be made available to persons who are victims of natural occurrences such as widespread shellfish contamination.

Assistants: Peter D. Bell, Leo Corbett, Richard Cotton, Patsy Fleming
Under Secretary: Hale Champion

The following departments have direct involvement in the marine and fisheries operations.

Public Health Service

Parklawn Bldg.
5600 Fishers Lane
Rockville, Md. 20857
Tel: (202) 245-6867

Acting Assistant Secretary for Health: Julia D. Richmond
Director, Office of Regional Operations: Judith Carpenter

Provides to fishermen free medical, surgical, dental care and hospitalization through Public Health Service hospitals, outpatient clinics and contract physicians. Artificial eyes and limbs, special shoes and other orthopedic and dental appliances will be supplied only when medically indicated as part of treatment. Eyeglasses will not be furnished for the sole purpose of correcting vision. PHS Hospitals are listed under each regional section. Names of contracting physicians may be obtained at any PHS hospital.

The following is a list of requirements to receive free medical care:

1. Be employed aboard a vessel that is documented as five net tons or more and be primarily involved with the care, preservation or navigation of the vessel. Commercial fishermen are covered in this requirement.

2. Be in the service (on board) of persons who are primarily engaged in the care, preservation or navigation of a vessel.

3. Be employed on state school ships or U.S. Government vessels of more than five net tons.

4. Be employed on vessels of the Mississippi River Commission.

5. Be an officer or crew with the Fish and Wildlife Service.

6. Own a commercial fishing vessel and perform seaman duties.

7. Be a seaman-trainee while participating in maritime training programs.

8. Be on active duty in the United States Maritime Service or be a member of the Merchant Marine Cadet Corp.

9. Be a cadet at state maritime academies or on state training ships.

For further information call Commander

Additionally, to be eligible a seaman must have completed at least 60 days of sea service aboard a vessel, with no break in service over 60 days, unless he is taken sick or is injured while actually on board a vessel. He is then eligible for treatment regardless of length of service. Application for medical care must be made within 180 days following the last day of sea service in most cases.

Owners and co-owners are not considered eligible except as under (6) above. Others ineligible are fishermen, solely engaged in fishing with no seamen duties, bar pilots, trial engineers and those employed on undocumented vessels. Seamen who require medical care while in foreign ports are the responsibility of the shipping company.

When applying for care at any Public Health Service facility a seaman must present a properly executed Master's Certificate of Service, or other evidence that he has been employed as a seaman.

The booklet Medical Care for Seamen is available from PHS.

Responsible under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act for assuring the safety and wholesomeness of all food, including fish products shipped in interstate commerce. Administers the National Shellfish Sanitation Program, a voluntary cooperative program between Federal and state governments, to prevent disease caused by eating unsafe shellfish. The FDA provides training programs, technical assistance and necessary field investigation and research. All regulatory activities are performed by the state under their respective laws but FDA is responsible for determining compliance with safety standards. FDA certifies shippers who have passed inspection and who have been approved by the participating states. The appropriate FDA field offices are listed in each geographic chapter of this book under "Federal Regional Offices."

The Fair Packaging and Labeling Act prescribes standards and labeling requirements for foods except those packaged in bulk. Of special attention are standards for canned or frozen oysters, shrimp, tuna and salmon.

Seafood industries are subject to the same type of inspection as other food industries. FDA inspectors inspect plants and facilities, collect samples of products and send them to FDA laboratories for inspection. Tests are made for decomposition, mercury content and pesticides.

The National Sea Grant Program was created in recognition of the fact that most marine industries have not developed in relation to the potential technologies available. It is the only intergovernmental program cooperating with state and local governments, industry and academic institutions, that is aimed at marine and environmental research, development and technology. While Sea Grant does not have a specific fisheries policy, many of its research activities and programs are related to the commercial fishing industry. See regional sections under "Sea Grant" for Sea Grant Colleges and Institutions.

Regional Coastal Information Centers

Centers provide a manageable method of disseminating information to the public. Areas of expertise are to include coastal zone management plans, industrial development, impact of the 200-mile zone on the fishing industry, pollution, marine transportation and new energy resources. The following centers have been established:

Northeast Regional Coastal Information Center

Division of Marine Resources, University of Rhode Island
Narragansett, R.I. 02882
Tel: (401) 792-6211

Principal Investigator: Charlene Quinn Dunn
Assistant Manager: Jane Miner

Provides information to the coastal New England States and to the Long Island area of New York.

Northwest Coastal Information Center

Oregon State University Marine Science Center
Newport, Or. 97365
Tel: (503) 867-3011, ext. 219

Principal Investigator: Dr. Robert Holton
Co-Investigator: John Morgan

Administered by Oregon State University School of Oceanography with a satellite station in the offices of the Columbia River Estuary Study Taskforce (CREST) in Astoria, Oregon and a main office at the OSU Marine Science Center in Newport, Oregon. NCIC provides regional reference and a referral service concerning Oregon and Washington coastal zone.

Office of Coastal Zone Management

3300 Whitehaven St., N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20235

Assistant Administrator for Coastal Zone Management: Robert W. Knecht

Tel: (202) 634-4232

Congressional Liaison: Jim Murley
Tel: (202) 653-7284
Coastal Zone Information Center: Katherine Jameson
Tel: (202) 634-4255

Funds state governments for implementing Coastal Zone Management programs. Does not have a "fisheries policy" as such, but a policy of coordination and cooperation was formalized with NMFS and the Office of Sea Grant because of common interests and responsibilities. Such coordination is required to ensure that states with coastal zone programs are making significant improvements in the management of fisheries resources.

NMFS reviews proposed State Coastal Zone Management programs and grant proposals and Estuarine Sanctuary proposals prior to their approval. If such proposals are considered harmful to the marine environment, OCZM tries to resolve them before authorizing grants.

to the harvesting, processing and marketing of fishery products, and reviews the research plans of the regional centers. Manages inspection programs, financial assistance and insurance programs and consumer education programs. Responsible for market news and research reports and provides information on foreign trade and other matters which may affect the commercial fishing industry. Coordinates regional fisheries development efforts designed to increase the market share of domestically produced seafoods.

Seafood Research, Inspection, and Consumer Services Division

Chief: Diane Boratyn (acting)

Provides fishery policy makers with current consumer views, and answers consumer inquiries and complaints. Acts as NOAA's representative on consumer relations on councils and committees at department and interagency levels as well as coordinates citizen participation in fishery policy development. Maintains contact with consumer and other public interest groups.

Develops, catalogs, retrieves and disseminates material to individual consumers, industry, food editors, electronic media, Sea Grant offices, the Dept. of Agriculture Extension Service, trade associations and academia.

Financial Services Div.

Tel: (202) 634-7496

Chief: Mike Grable

Administers fisheries financial assistance programs.

Fishing Vessel Obligation

Guarantee Program:

The Federal Government can guarantee loans for the construction, reconstruction or reconditioning of U.S. commercial fishing vessels of at least five net tons. It also can guarantee loans for processing, holding, unloading and fuel storage facilities; docks and fishing gear and equipment. A guarantee is restricted to 75 of the total cost of the purchase. The program enables the fishing industry to secure less expensive loans than normally available. Loans are generally given by private lending institutions; however, NMFS often can find a lender if usual financial channels are not available. NMFS has a booklet on the program: "Fishing Vessel Obligation Guarantee." The program is authorized by an amendment under Title XI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936.

Fishing Vessel Capital Construction Fund Program

Authorized by Sec. 607 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936. Allows fishermen to defer Federal income taxes on vessel income which is set aside in an account with the Sec. of Commerce for constructing, reconstructing or (under limited circumstance) acquiring vessels of at least five net tons.

Fisheries Loan Fund Program

Established by Sec. 4 of the Fish & Wildlife Act of 1956. A subsidy program for the construction of fishing vessels. Several vessels were built under this program, including fishingboats for the tuna, scallop and groundfish fisheries.

Fishermen's Guaranty Fund

Reimburses fishing vessel owners or charterers for costs of seizures of their boats by foreign nations claiming territorial seas not recognized by the U.S. The Government reimbursements include compensation for fines, spoiled fish and lost wages to fishermen. See "Fishermen's Protective Act" under U.S. legislation.

Compensation for Losses (New Program)

U.S. commercial fishermen whose vessels or gear are damaged or destroyed by foreign fishing vessels operating within the U.S. 200-mile fishery zone were to be eligible for compensation.

Under the system, fishermen may apply for a loan if the replacement value of the damaged gear or vessel, less depreciation, exceeds $2,000. Loans would be made shortly after approval by the National Marine Fisheries Service, and will carry an interest rate of 3.5

After the loan is made, an effort will be made to determine who was at fault. If it is determined that the U.S. fisherman was not, the loan will be canceled, all payments on the loan will be refunded, and the fisherman will keep the loan funds as full compensation. If the U.S. fisherman was at fault, the loan will become due in full at an earlier — but reasonable — date than originally set. If fault cannot be determined, the loan must be repaid according to the original terms which would correspond to the expected life of the equipment.

Loan applications should be sent to National Marine Fisheries Service, NOAA, F-25, Washington, D.C. 20235.

Seafood Quality & Inspection Div.

Chief: Thomas Billy

Encourages national and international trading of fishery products through seafood quality-control programs. Administers a national voluntary inspection program to improve handling, processing, safety and utilization of seafood and aquaculture resources. Conducts educational activities to expand users' knowledge and confidence in inspected fish products. Conducts research concerning inspection of seafood including sanitary handling standards.

Coordinates preparation of internaticnal and domestic standards for sanitation, quality, grade, identification and nomenclature of fish products and processing standards.

National Seafood Quality & Inspection Laboratory

P.O. Drawer 1207, Pascagoula, Ms. 39567
Tel: (601) 762-4591

Director: E. Spencer Garrett

The laboratory conducts and coordinates chemical, physical, microbiological, public health, nutritional engineering and food processing studies to provide standards for seafood quality and sanitary handling.

Import Inspection Service

Provides an impartial fishery products inspection service of interest to U.S. importers and foreign firms wishing to enter the U.S. market. Provides technical assistance to develop purchasing, processing and end-product specifications or purchase contracts for producers and shippers. Inspects fishery products after they enter the U.S. to determine compliance with the importer's requirements. Certification includes species identification, and other information that may be needed. Consultation on product labeling, quality assurance plans, assistance with problems that impede trade flow is also provided.

Inspection is provided on a fee-for-service basis and can be requested by any person having a financial interest in the product. Inquiries may be made at the following inspection offices:

Fisheries Development Div.
Tel: (813) 893-3271

Chief: Dr. John E. Greenfield

Administers programs to develop underutilized species. Attempts to alleviate supply and demand imbalances and conducts programs to strengthen existing fisheries. Also develops foreign markets.

Office of Resource Conservation and Development

Director: William Gordon

Advises on all matters related to fisheries management and marine recreational fisheries. Develops national standards and operational guidelines for fisheries management programs, reviews and recommends action on fisheries management plans, prepares necessary implementing regulations, issues permits and coordinates enforcement programs. Coordinates administrative and technical support for the Regional Fisheries Management Councils. Also coordinates the planning and development of marine recreational fisheries programs.

State-Federal Div.

Chief: Dick Schaefer

Tel: (202) 634-7454

Monitors and coordinates fisheries management between state and Federal governments. Coordinates research efforts in areas of joint management of fisheries resources. Administers Grant-in-Aid programs to improve the capacity of states and other non-Federal entities to conduct and coordinate fisheries research and development.

Plan Review Div.

Chief: Roland Finch

Tel: (202) 634-7449

Reviews activities on all fisheries management plans and amendments and coordinates scheduling and processing. Prepares environmental impact statements and economic impact analyses.

Enforcement Div.

Tel: (202) 634-7265

Chief: Morris Pallozzi

Coordinates programs to enforce laws and regulations. Promotes programs to protect marine mammals and endangered species.

Permits & Regulations Div.

Chief: Denton R. Moore

Tel: (202) 634-7432

Plans, develops and coordinates fishing fees for foreign vessels authorized to fish within the U.S. 200-mile fishing zone. Also issues permits and collects the fees.

Office of International Fisheries Affairs

Tel: (202) 634-7514

Director: Carmen Blondin
Deputy Director: Henry R. Beasley

Advises on all matters related to international fisheries, develops policy positions and acquires and analyzes data regarding the status and impact of present and projected foreign fishing, industry activities and government policies regarding fishing. Participates in international negotiations. Manages NOAA's program of training observers for foreign fishing vessels operating in the U.S. 200-mile fishing zone.

Also monitors and coordinates activities of the U.S. Fisheries Attache program. The following are fisheries attache appointments. (See Dept. of Agriculture concerning agriculture attaches who occasionally deal with commercial fisheries):

Robert Iversen
Regional Fisheries Attache
American Embassy, Tokyo
APO San Francisco, Ca. 96503

International Organizations & Agreements Div.

Chief: Henry Beasley

Tel: (202) 634 7263

Coordinates all NMFS activities relating to foreign and international developments that have an impact on fisheries and marine mammals. Maintains liaison with other foreign government departments concerned with the international aspect of marine resources. Prepares position and background papers for international activities. Drafts treaties, prepares domestic legislation for international fisheries and marine mammal agreements.

Foreign Fisheries Analysis Div.

Chief: Milan Kravanja

Tel: (202) 634-7307

Collects, monitors, evaluates and disseminates foreign fisheries information for use by Federal and state agencies, industry, academic groups and other public interest groups. Issues a variety of detailed reports and market advisories on foreign fisheries.

International Fisheries Development & Services Div.

Chief: Dr. Fred Olson (acting)

Tel: (202) 634-7263

Coordinates NMFS activities relating to international developments, including interaction with U.N. development programs, AID, international banks and other institutions. Develops and evaluates fishery training programs for foreign nationals, and provides interpreter services in support of international meetings. Coordinates recommendations to the Dept of State regarding foreign fisheries catch allocations in the 200-mile zone.

Office of Science and Environment

Director: Tom Austin (temporary)

Advises on all NMFS research programs. Develops policy and guidelines and provides national coordination for planning and development of biological and socio-economic research necessary to provide information on fisheries management options to the Regional Fisheries Management councils. Supports national and regional programs related to utilization technology, marine mammals, endangered species and habitat protection. Advises on the research plans of the Regional Centers, and on the needs for oceanic research and services which should be undertaken to meet the needs of the fisheries industry. Serves as the primary liaison with other government agencies and the scientific community on the national level regarding scientific and technical matters.

Data Management and Information Systems Div.

Chief: Hoyt Wheeland

Responsible for developing and managing data collection systems.

Resource Statistics Div.

Chief: Joe Pileggi

Manages a nationwide system for collection, storage, retrieval, compilation and publications of research statistical information.

A partial list of National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) publications is shown below. Information on other publications produced by NMFS may be obtained by calling 301-443-8330 or writing:

User Services Branch, (OA/D822)

Washington, D.C. 20235
Tel: (202) 634-7366

The bulletins listed below show annual data on U.S. commercial landings, fishermen and operating unit data, and the production of processed products, by states. Statistics published in these sectional summary bulletins are published later in Fishery Statistics of the United States (Statistical Digest) together with text and more detailed information on landings and operating units.

New England Fisheries

Middle Atlantic Fisheries

Chesapeake Fisheries

South Atlantic Fisheries

Gulf Fisheries

Hawaii Fisheries

Great Lakes Fisheries

Mississippi River Fisheries

The bulletins shown below cover freezings and holdings, the production of various processed products, and the U.S. foreign trade in fishery products. The annual data shown in the publications are later published in Fishery Statistics of the United States.

The following are issued as monthly and annual bulletins.

FF Frozen Fishery Products

FM Fish Meal and Oil

The following, with one exception, are issued annually:

MF-1 Canned Fishery Products

MF-2 Industrial Fishery Products

MF-3 U.S. Production of Fish Fillets and Steaks

MF-4 Processed Fishery Products

MF-5 Fish Sticks, Fish Portions, and Breaded Shrimp (quarterly and annually)

MF-6 Imports and Exports of Fishery Products

Library Information

Library information is available from NOAA's Georgetown Information Center (0A/D8 222), Page Building 2, Room 193, 3300 Whitehaven Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20235. Tel: (202) 634-7346.

Resource Statistics Div.

Chief: B.G. Thompson, (Acting)

Tel: (202) 634-7366

Provides technical assistance and guidance for planning, coordination and management of nationwide living marine resource technical and research programs. Coordinates national marine resource assessment programs conducted by NMFS research vessels.

Office of Marine Mammals and Endangered Species

Director: Richard B. Roe (actg.)

Tel: (202) 634-7461

Formed in 1978 to advise on all matters related to the conservation and protection of marine mammals and endangered species and to advise on the need for research in these areas. Reviews research plans of the Fisheries Centers and coordinates these plans with other conservation and protection programs. Prepares regulations and public notices, conducts public hearings and meetings, prepares and reviews management plans, issues permits to take marine mammals or endangered species and assists the Office of Resource Conservation and Management in coordinating enforcement programs. Provides technical support for international negotiations and the Marine Mammal Commission. Also manages the Pribilof Islands Program and related fur seal harvest in cooperation with the Northwest Regional Office.

Office of Habitat Protection

Director: Robert Smith (temporary)

Tel: (202) 634-7490

Formed in 1978 to act as a source of advice on all matters related to the environmental impact of human activities on the Nation's commercial fishery and living marine resources and their habitats. Advises on the need for research related to habitat protection, reviews research plans of the Fisheries Centers, coordinates these plans with other habitat protection programs of the Office. Advises on the effect energy production efforts, outer continental shelf development activities, coastal zone planning and development programs may have on marine resources and habitats. Coordinates preparation of NMFS comments on construction and waste discharge permits, Federal water projects and determines the degree to which such activities comply with national policies. Acts as interagency liaison on all matters related to habitat.

NMFS Market News Reports

Fishery Market News reports give landings, market receipts, weekly and monthly cold-storage holdings, ex-vessel prices, wholesale prices of fresh and frozen products, foreign trade data, current market developments, and other information for major fishery trading centers in the United States. The reports are issued from Boston, New York, New Orleans, Terminal Island and Seattle.

You can order either the full service report (includes the weekly summary), or order only the weekly summary. The full service report is issued Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The weekly summary is issued on Friday. The full service costs $35 a year. The Friday weekly summary costs $15 a year. The subscription period is one year beginning the first of the month following receipt of the order. For more information contact the following market news offices. Washington, DC 20240

Director: Gary D. Cobb

Information Officer: Doris Ullman

Tel: (202) 343-8964

Develops solutions to water-related problems. Research is carried out by universities and private firms funded by the Office. It is committed to annually supporting a water research institute at one university in each state. Technological advances relating to the commercial fisheries include the development of salt resistant coatings and alloys, surveys of coastal ecology, improved Great Lake estuarine planning and management and studies of pollution dispersion, sedimentation, and effects of pollutants on aquatic organisms. The Office operates the Water Resources Scientific Information Center to provide information about ongoing research and results of completed research.

Publications: Annual Report, Selected Water Resources Abstracts, Water Resources Research Catalog and misc. reports, reprints and bibliographies.

Bureau of Indian Affairs

1951 Constitution Ave.
Washington, D.C. 20240
Tel: (202) 343-5116

Commissioner: William Hallett
Acting Director, Office of Trust Responsibilities: William L. Benjamin
Acting Chief, Division of Fish, Wildlife & Recreation: Ulyses S. St. Arnold

Tel: (202) 343-6574

Tel: (202) 343-5831

Public Information Officer: Thomas Oxendine

Tel: (202) 343-7445

A service organization for federally-recognized Indian tribes. Serves as a source of technical and financial aid to tribes. Conducts training programs to enable treaty tribes to become self-regulatory regarding reservation fishery resources, identifies habitat problems, surveys productivity, and collects and analyzes data relating to Indian rights. Two areas of conflicts between whites and Indians in the U.S. include fishing rights and quotas in the Pacific Northwest and the Great Lakes. A Supreme Court decision has stated that fishing by Indians for commercial purposes may be regulated by the states in the interest of conservation, provided the regulation does not discriminate against the Indians. However, states are required to allocate quotas based on early treaties if they exist.

Bureau of Land Management

C St. bewteen 18th & 19th Sts.
Washington, D.C. 20240

Chief, Office of Public Affairs: Daniel A. Alfieri

Tel: (202) 343-5717

Administers the National Resource Lands, located primarily in the western states, which amount to about 60 of all Federally-owned lands. These lands are managed for various outputs, including outdoor recreation, fish and wildlife production, livestock grazing, timber, industrial development, watershed protection, and mineral and oil production including on the Outer Continental Shelf.

The Outer Continental Shelf lease program includes assembly of pertinent data and preparation of environmental impact studies. Has conducted environmental impact studies in the Atlantic off New Jersey and Delaware, and off Georgia and Florida.

Maintains regional offices in Anchorage, Alaska; Phoenix, Ariz.; Sacramento, Calif.; Denver, Colo.; Alexandria, Vir.; Boise, Idaho; Billings, Mont.; Reno, Nev.; Santa Fe, N.M.; Portland, Ore.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Publication: Our Public Lands. Editor: Connie H. Babb

Bureau of Water and Power Resources Service

Dept. of the Interior, C St. between 18th and 19th St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20240

Commissioner: R. Keith Higginson
Chief, Office of Public Affairs: David K. Martin

Tel: (202) 343-4662

Assists all levels of government to stabilize and stimulate local and regional economies, protect the environment and develop water and related land resources, especially in the western states and Hawaii. Program activities include basic research on marine soils, marine geology and the collection of marine data. Has built fish ladders and constructed hatcheries. Trucks returning salmon around man-made barriers in the Columbia River, and rivers in the Sacramento and San Francisco Bay Areas.

A possible source of small project loans relating to marine fisheries.

Engineering and Research Center

Director: H. William Menard
Associate Director: Doyle G. Frederick
Chief, Water Resources Division: Philip Cohen
Public Information Officer: Donovan D. Kelly, Acting Chief

Responsibilities include activities in topographic mapping, geology, water resources and conservation. Activities include gathering information about resources on federal lands and the Outer Continental Shelf in order to expedite efficient and safe production of oil, gas and other mineral and energy resources. Also assesses the quantity and quality of the nation's water resources by maintaining records of stream discharges into estuaries, bays, oceans, and the Great Lakes. Maintains records of sediment discharges.

Publishes and distributes maps and reports covering mineral, fuel and water resources and natural hazards.

Associate Director, Federal Assistance: Ronald Lamberton
Assistant Director, Public Affairs, John Mattoon
Assistant Director, Planning & Budget: Jan Sokoloski
Assistant Director, Administration: Edward Davis

Operates recreational fish hatcheries, conducts research to preserve declining species and controls undesirable species in freshwater. Laws it enforces include the Great Lakes Fishery Act and the Black Bass Act. Jointly administers the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act with National Marine Fisheries Service. Thirty-one states are cooperating to manage their anadromous fish resources. Resource inventories have been made, disease detection and controls have been developed and hatcheries have been constructed, improved and expanded. Administers funds for state fisheries research. Other programs include coastal ecosystem studies and a National Wetlands inventory to identify each wetland according to five basic ecological systems.

Oceanographer of the Navy: Rear Admiral R. N. Williams

Conducts oceanography projects of value to the commercial fishing industry. Under water acoustic research is providing new techniques and instrumentation for the location of living marine resources. Other research includes a biological and ecological study of marine organisms relating to the fouling and deterioration of equipment and a study of acoustical properties and behavior of marine organisms, including large mammals, schools of fish and plankton. Engineering research has produced a variety of communications and navigational equipment, new buoyancy materials and corrosion-free deep ocean rigging.

Publishes an annual Progress Report Abstracts: Ocean Biology.

DEPT. OF THE TREASURY

Washington, D.C. 20220
Tel: (202) 566-2000

Secretary: Donald T. Regan

Through the U.S. Customs Service, Treasury is responsible for enforcing a wide variety of laws relating to the importation of fish, fishing activities in U.S. territorial waters, and the operation of fishing vessels. In most instances the Department acts based on specific directions from either the President or the Secretaries of State, Commerce and Interior. For example, Treasury under the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972, P.L. 92-522, 16 USC 1361 prohibits the importation of certain endangered species. Under the Fisheries Conservation and Management Act of 1976, P.L. 94-265, 16 USC 1801, Treasury institutes embargoes for fish and fish products from fisheries of countries in violation of the Act. P.L. 96-61 (1979) and the Nickolson Act (46 USC 251 (a) restrict access of foreign flag vessels' access to U.S. ports and to fishing in U.S. territorial waters.

U.S. Customs Service

1301 Constitution Ave., NW
Washington, D.C. 20229
Tel: (202) 566-8195

Commissioner: William T. Archey

Jointly enforces certain environmental protection programs for other agencies including the prohibition of discharging refuse and oil into or upon coastal navigable waters with the U.S. Coast Guard; enforces certain laws regarding endangered species and those injurious to community health, plant and animal life, as well as certain quarantine regulations. Makes and enforces regulations as to the dutiability of foreign purchases of vessel equipment by American vessels.

In general, an American vessel licensed to engage in the fisheries is not considered to be engaged in foreign trade and therefore is not subject to the duties arising under the Tariff Act, except when it obtains a permit to land and sell fish in a foreign country. However, a U.S. fishingboat is allowed without restrictions to obtain bunkers, stores, supplies and fishing gear (to replace lost or damaged gear while on a trip).

DEPT OF ENERGY

1000 Independence Ave. S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20585
Tel: (202) 252-5000

Secretary: James Edwards

Conducts marine research concerned with characterization of pollutants in coastal waters and their diffusion by currents and food chains; effects of radioactivity on marine populations and effects of effluent discharged from nuclear power plants.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

Waterside Mall
401 M St., SW
Washington, D.C. 20460
Tel: (202) 382-2090

Administrator: Douglas M. Costle

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

Pennsylvania Ave. at 6th St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20580
Tel: (202) 523-3598

Chairman: Michael Pertschuk

Responsible for preventing trade restraints, price discrimination and false advertising. Of particular interest to the fishing industry was an investigation of the salmon industry to determine if certain restraints were in violation of the law. A consumer, competitor, member of Congress or a political body may request the Commission to investigate a complaint.

U.S. INTERNATIONAL TRADE COMMISSION

701 E St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20436
Tel: (202) 523-0161

Chairman: Bill Alberger
Secretary: Kenneth R. Mason
Director, Office of Industries: Norris A. Lynch
Chief, Agriculture, Fisheries and Forest Products Dev.: Edward P. Furlow

Conducts research on matters pertaining to international economics and foreign trade. It acts as a focal point in government for receiving the views of the public and private sectors on international trade issues. Staff includes economists, trained investigators, commodity-industry analysts, lawyers, data systems experts and service and production personnel.

Conducts investigations upon petition on behalf of a firm or a group of workers to determine whether an article is being imported in such quantities as to be a threat to an industry. If the Commission's finding is affirmative, the President can take action to provide import relief, such as an increase in duties, marketing agreements or other types of assistance.

Also, studies and advises the President as to the economic effect of modification of duties, quotas and tariffs of a variety of products including fish and fish products.

Technical information and data on international trade matters may be obtained from either the Washington or New York office.

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

Washington, D.C. 20550
Tel: (202) 357-9498

Director: Dr. John B. Slaughter
Assistant Director for Astronomical, Atmospheric, Earth and Ocean Sciences: Francis S. Johnson
Division Director, Division of Ocean Science: Dr. M. Grant Gross

Sponsors, through contracts and grants, research projects in the sciences. Most research is basic and theoretical, and does not duplicate that conducted by NMFS or other agencies. Under the Biological Oceanography program, approximately 10% of the funded research efforts may have fisheries implications. Specific projects have includerl ecological studies of fish communities in Norfolk Canyon and adjacent continental shelf, the community structure and reproductive biology of benthic fish populations, and viability and transmission mechanisms of protozoan parasites that infest blue crabs and other commercially valuable species.

Under the Small Business Innovation Research program, research proposals are sought covering important scientific or engineering problems and opportunities that could lead to significant public benefit. Topic areas include Bio-sources of materials, Marine resources, mineral resources, and Environmental technology. NSF does not fund product development, technical assistance, and pilot-plant efforts. NSF does fund research on advanced concepts in scientific or engineering areas where the research may serve as a base for technological innovation.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

1717 H Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20555
Tel: (301) 492-7000

Commission Chairman: John F. Ahearne
Executive Director For Operations: William J. Dircks
Director, Office of Nuclear Regulatory Research: Robert B. Minogue

Licensing reponsibilities include conducting safety and environmental reviews of the impact of construction and operation of nuclear facilities on marine life. Has conducted a number of surveys and projects relative to the effect of thermal discharges, toxicity of power plant chemicals to aquatic life, fish protection at intake structures and dams, fish kills at operating stations and aquaculture possibilities in discharge waters.

OVERSEAS PRIVATE INVESTMENT CORPORATION

Washington, D.C. 20527
Tel: (202) 653-2800

Acting President: Gerald T. West

Encourages investments in approximately 90 developing nations by providing to private investors incentives which reduce or eliminate risks. Also provides financial assistance not otherwise available. Investors are insured against political risks and damages for war or insurrection. U.S. lenders are offered protection against political and commercial risks.

Publications include an annual report, an investing finance book, insurance booklet and a country list showing where OPIC is involved.

1441 L. St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20416
Tel: (202) 653-6365

Federal Inspection Marks For Fishery Products

What Are Federal Inspection Marks?

Federal inspection marks are official marks approved by the Secretary of Commerce and authorized for use on brand labels of fishery products. When displayed on product labels, these marks signify that Federal Inspectors of the Department of Commerce inspected, graded and certified the products that have met all the requirements of the inspection regulations and have been produced in accordance with official U.S. Grade Standards or approved specifications.

What do the inspection marks mean?

"U.S. Grade" Mark Signifies That:
1. The product is clean, safe, and wholesome.
2. The product is of a specified quality, identified by the appropriate U.S. Grade designation, as determined by a Federal inspector in accordance with established requirements in U.S. Grade Standards.
3. The product was produced in an acceptable establishment, with proper equipment, and in an appropriate processing environment as required by food control authorities.
4. The product was processed under supervision by Federal food inspectors and packed by sanitary food handlers in accordance with specific Good Manufacturing Practice requirements.
5. The product is truthfully and accurately labeled as to common or usual name, optional ingredients, and quantity.

"Packed Under Federal Inspection" mark may be displayed as an official mark or as an official statement on the product label. The mark or statement signifies that the properly labeled product is clean, safe, and wholesome and has been produced in an acceptable establishment with appropriate equipment under the supervision of Federal inspectors. The product has not been graded as to a specific quality level; rather, it is an acceptable commercial quality as determined by Federal inspectors in accordance with approved standards or specifications.

Inquiries regarding inspection services may be directed to any of the following offices of The National Marine Fisheries Service, Fishery Products Inspection and Safety Division, U.S. Department of Commerce, NOAA:

The American Fisheries Promotion Act of 1980

A reemphasis of the Saltonstall-Kennedy legislation for research and development of industry initiated projects. The federal share of industry proposed projects may not be less than 50% of the estimated project costs.

The legislation extends the Title XI Loan Guarantee Program to shoreside and floating fish processing and distribution facilities, and fishing vessels. Participation is limited to companies 75% U.S. owned.

There shall be at least six fishery trade officers in foreign capitols, assessing market opportunities and barriers abroad and providing marketing assistance to U.S. exporters. Fee receipts for foreign fishing in the U.S. Fishery Conservation Zone for 1981 must be no less than 7% of the exvessel value of the foreign harvest in the United States Zone in 1979.

Emphasis of the act is on developing and improving export opportunities for surplus fish products, transfer technology to the U.S. industry, and cooperation of foreign nations in avoiding gear conflicts.

The act revitalizes the Fisheries Loan Fund, permitting emergency loan funds to owners/operators, to avoid default on obligations covering fishing vessels (if other loans are not available at reasonable rates), until Sept. 30, 1982.

The bill also provides a formula for phased reduction of 5%, 10% or 15% in foreign fleet allocations for U.S. increase catches of 25%-50%, 50%-75%, or more than 75%, respectively, over 1979.

The legislation mandates a 100% observer coverage with specified exceptions.

Anadromous Fish Conservation Act

Authorizes the Secretaries of Interior and Commerce to enter into cooperative agreements with states and other non-Federal agencies for the conservation and development of anadromous fish (including salmon, shad, steelhead trout and striped bass). Authorizes investigations, engineering and biological surveys, research, stream clearance, construction, maintenance and operations of hatcheries and devices and structures for improving movement, feeding and spawning conditions.

(16 USC 757a-757f; 79 Stat. 1125; P. L. 89-304; Amended by 84 Stat. 214, P. L. 91-249, and 88 Stat. 398, P.L. 91-262)

Black Bass Act

Prohibits importation or transportation in interstate or foreign commerce of black bass and other fish in violation of foreign, state, or other law; or purchase of such fish. The Sec. of the Interior is authorized to issue regulations concerning importation and shipment of these fish.

(16 USC 851-856; amended 44 Stat. 576, P.L. 256; 46 Stat. 845, P.L. 495; 61 Stat. 517, P.L. 258; 66 Stat. 736, P.L. 569; 73 Stat. 430, P.L. 86-207; 83 Stat. 282, P.L. 91-135)

Capital Construction Fund Act

(Merchant Marine Act of 1970)

Provides that any citizen of the U.S. owning or leasing one or more "eligible vessels" (including eligible fishing vessels) may enter into an agreement with the Sec. of Commerce to establish a capital construction fund that will be used for the eventual replacement or reconstruction of the vessel or gear and equipment.

"Eligible vessel" is defined as any vessel constructed in the United States, or if reconstructed, reconstructed in the United States, documented under the laws of the United States, and operated in the foreign or domestic commerce of the United States with the grandfather proviso that any ship built abroad but documented under U.S. flag on April 15, 1970 or built abroad before that date for use in foreign trade pursuant to a contract entered into before that date shall be considered as though built in the United States.

Section 607 provides for a deferral of Federal income taxes on deposits into the fund from the following sources:

(1) Earnings from shipping operations of agreement vessels.

(2) Net proceeds from the sale or other disposition of, or from insurance on, agreement vessels.

(3) Earnings from investment or reinvestment of amounts held in the fund. This has the effect of deferring tax on ordinary income or capital gains on these deposits so long as they remain in the fund.

Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972

Establishes a program aimed at assisting states in developing land and water use programs for coastal zones. Administered by the Sec. of Commerce and Sec. of the Interior.

(16 USC 1451-1464; Stat. 1280; P.L. 92-583)

Columbia River Basin Fishery Development Act

(The Mitchell Act)

Authorizes the Sec. of the Interior to carry on activities for conservation of fishery resources in the Columbia River Basin. Specifically directs the construction of salmon hatcheries, engineering and biological surveys and experiments and installation of fish protective devices utilizing the services and facilities of agencies of the states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho which are responsible for the conservation of fish and wildlife.

(16 USC 755-757; 52 Stat. 345, P.L. 502; as amended 60 Stat. 932, P.L. 676)

Cooperative Research and Training Units Act

Empowers the Sec. of the Interior to form cooperative agreements with colleges and universities, state fish and game departments and other non-profit local organizations for developing cooperative research and training programs for fish and wildlife resources. (In 1976 there were 25 cooperative fishery units at colleges throughout the country.)

(16 USC 753a-753b; 74 Stat. 733, P.L. 86-686)

Dingell-Johnson Act

(see Federal Aid in Fish Restoration Act)

Endangered Species Act

Administered by the Secretaries of Commerce and Interior. Provides for the conservation of threatened and endangered species of fish, wildlife and plants; authorizes cooperative agreements and grants-in-aid to those states which establish and maintain an active program for endangered species and provides for enforcement including civil and criminal penalties for the violation of the Act.

(16 USC 1531; 87 Stat. 884, P.L. 93-205; 90 Stat. 724, P.L. 94-325; 90 Stat. 911, P.L. 94-359)

Estuary Protection Act

Authorizes the Sec. of the Interior, cooperating with the states, the Sec. of the Army and other Federal agencies to study and inventory estuaries of the United States. May enter into cost-sharing agreements with states for permanent management of estuarine areas.

Exploration, Investigation, Development and Maintenance of Fishing Resources and Industry of the Pacific Ocean

(Farrington Act of 1947)

Authorizes the Sec. of the Interior, through the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, to conduct fishing explorations and necessary related work including oceanographical, biological, technological, statistical, and economic studies to insure maximum development and utilization of the high seas fishery resources of the United States and its island possessions in the tropical and subtropical Pacific Ocean. Authorizes a fishery research laboratory and experiment station in Hawaii. Certain fishing and research vessels are also authorized.

(16 USC 758-758d; 61 Stat. 726, P.L. 329; 74 Stat. 412, P.L. 86-624)

Federal Aid in Fish Restoration Act

(The Dingell-Johnson Act)

Provides Federal aid to states for management and restoration of fish having "material value in connection with sport or recreation in the marine and/or fresh waters of the United States." Funds are derived from a Federal Excise tax on certain sportfishing equipment and apportioned to states by a formula based on each state's area and number of sport fishing licenses issued. To participate, states must have fishery conservation laws, including a prohibition against the use of license fees paid by fishermen for any purpose other than the administration of that state's fish and game department.

Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act of 1972

Established under the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. Provides for a program to control the application of pesticides. Provides criminal and civil penalties for violation. Provides for Federal registration and regulation of all pesticides, including those distributed to or used by individual States.

(7 USC 136-136y; 86 Stat. 975, P.L. 92-516)

Federal Ship Financing Act of 1972

Amends Title XI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, by replacing authority to insure vessel mortgages and loans with authority to guarantee loans. Fishing vessels of five net tons or over are one of several classes of eligible vessels. Generally, loans (owed to private lenders) eligible for guarantee must have aided in financing or refinancing the cost of constructing, reconstructing or reconditioning vessels, facilities or equipment pertaining to marine operations.

(46 USC 1271-1280; 86 Stat. 909, P.L. 92-507)

Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972

Requires permits from the Environmental Protection Agency for the discharge of any pollutant into navigable waters. Provides for the Army Corps of Engineers to issue permits for the discharge of dredged or fill materials into the navigable waters, with oversight by the EPA. Permit applications are reviewed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for impacts on fish and wildlife.

(33 USC 1251-1265, 1281-1292, 1311-1328, 1341-1345, 1361-1376 et al; 86 Stat. 816, P.L. 92-500)

Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956

Establishes a comprehensive fish and wildlife policy. Authorizes the Sec. of the Interior to develop measures for "maximum sustainable production of fish," make economic studies and recommend measures to insure stability of the domestic fisheries. Undertakes promotional and informational activities to stimulate consumption of fishery products and take steps required "for the development, management, advancement, conservation and protection of fishery resources." Functions are related to marine commercial fisheries and sport fisheries. Great Lakes fishery research and certain other fishery related activities are assigned to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, under the Department of Commerce. Act provides for cooperation between the secretaries of State and Interior to provide representation at international meetings relating to fish and wildlife.

The 1974 amendment provides that the Small Business Administration may make loans to fishermen, under certain situations, while the Fisheries Loan Fund moratorium exists.

Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act

Authorizes the Sec. of the Interior to assist Federal, state and other agencies in developing, protecting, rearing and stocking fish and wildlife on Federal lands. Also authorizes studies on the effects of pollution on fish and wildlife.

Fish-Rice Rotation Farming Program Act of 1958

Authorizes appropriation of funds and directs the Sec. of the Interior to establish experiment stations for research and experimentation to determine species of fish most suitable for culture on a commercial basis in shallow reservoirs and flooded rice lands. Also authorizes funds for studies to determine, in cooperation with the Dept. of Agriculture, the effects of fish-rice rotations, including crops other than rice; and to develop suitable methods for harvesting the fish crop and preparing it for marketing.

Fishermen's Protective Act of 1967

Authorizes the Sec. of State to reimburse damages to the owner or charterer of a U.S. fishing vessel that has been seized by a foreign country while operating on the high seas or while fishing between three and 200 miles offshore of a foreign nation for highly migratory fish such as tuna. Payments may be paid for the cost of having the vessel released, replacement of confiscated gear, spoiled fish and loss of income to commercial fishermen.

It also authorizes withholding financial aid to any country that seizes a U.S. fishing vessel illegally.

Also gives the President discretionary authority to prohibit the importation of fishery products from nations which conduct fishing operations in a manner that diminishes the effectiveness of multilateral international fishery conservation programs in which the U.S. participates.

Fishery Cooperative Act of 1934

(15 USC 521-522; 48 Stat. 1213 P.L. 464)

Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976

(200-Mile Limit Law)

200-Mile-Limit Legislation provides for a management plan to conserve and maintain the fisheries, preventing over fishing that has a detrimental effect on the survival of certain stocks of fish and the economic health of coastal areas largely dependent on the fisheries industry. Also a program for the development of fisheries of underutilized or not utilized fish to provide employment, revenue, and food supply. Legislation is also intended to protect American fisherman in coastal areas from damage to the adjacent fishery by foreign fishing fleets, interference with domestic fishing efforts, and destruction of fishing gear.

This act establishes a fishery conservation zone within which the U.S. will assume exclusive fishery management authority over all fish, anadromous species and Continental Shelf fishery resources, except highly migratory species. It also establishes Regional Fishery Management Councils to prepare, monitor, and revise plans to develop fisheries with participation of the States, the fishing industry, consumer and environmental organizations, and other interested persons.

The fishery conservation zone is contiguous to the territorial sea of the U.S. The inner boundary of the fishery conservation zone is a line coterminous with the seaward boundary of each of the coastal states, and the outer boundary of such zone is a line drawn in such a manner that each point on it is 200 nautical miles from the baseline from which the territorial sea is measured.

The U.S. shall exercise exclusive fishery management authority, in the manner provided for in this Act, over the following: 1)All fish within the fishery conservation zone. 2)All anadromous species throughout the migratory range of each such species beyond the fishery conservation zone; except that such management authority shall not extend to such species during the time they are found within any foreign nation's territorial sea or fishery conservation zone (or the equivalent), to the extent that such sea or zone is recognized by the U.S. 3)All Continental Shelf fishery resources beyond the fishery conservation zone. 4)The exclusive fishery management authority of the U.S. shall not include, nor shall it be construed to extend to, highly migratory species of fish.

Fur Seal Act of 1966

Great Lakes Fishery Act of 1956

Authorizes the Sec. of the Interior to carry out the programs under the Convention on Great Lakes Fisheries, including administering funds, appointing commissioners; acquiring real property and contracting with any state, public or private agency or individual for the construction, operation and maintenance of sea lamprey control projects.

(16 USC 931-939c; 70 Stat. 242; P.L. 89-557)

Jones Act

(see Merchant Marine & Shipping Act)

Lacey Act

(Transportation of Wildlife Taken in Violation of State, National, or Foreign Laws)

Originally pertained only to transportation or importation of wild animals or birds. The term "wildlife" has been amended to mean ". . .any wild mammal, bird, amphibian, reptile, mollusk, or crustacean. . ." which makes the law useful in commercial fisheries management. Prohibits the transportation of wildlife, as defined, if taken in violation of state, national or foreign laws and provides civil and criminal penalties. Administered by the Secretary of Interior.

Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972

Establishes Federal responsibility for the conservation of marine mammals with management under the Dept. of the Interior for sea otter, walrus, polar bear, dugong and manatee, and under the Dept. of Commerce for all whales, porpoises, seals, and sea lions. Establishes (with certain exceptions) a moratorium on the taking and importation of marine mammals and products made from them. Provides for the establishment of a three-member Marine Mammal Commission, supported by a nine-member Committee of Scientific Advisors.

Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act of 1972

Establishes a program administered by the Environmental Protection Agency to regulate dumping of materials into ocean waters. The Sec. of Commerce, in coordination with the Coast Guard and the EPA, and in consultation with the Sec. of the Interior, is directed to determine long range effects of pollution, over-fishing and other activities on ocean ecosystems. The Sec. of Commerce is authorized to designate and protect marine sanctuaries after consultation with the Secretaries of the Interior, State, Defense and Transportation; and the Administrator of the EPA. If waters within the territorial limits of any state are involved, state officials must also be consulted.

Merchant Marine and Shipping Act of 1916

Comprises a vast body of legislation amended and supplemented many times. The Jones Act is the generic term used for various sections regulating U.S. commercial shipping, including the fisheries. As it pertains to fishing boats, it does not allow any vessel five net tons or over to participate in coastal fisheries if it was not built in the U.S. Vessels over five net tons and engaged in commercial fishing are required to be documented. Under five net tons a vessel cannot be documented, but must be registered according to state regulations.

Other provisions under the Merchant Marine law concern licensing of fishing vessels, fines for trading without license; load lines for vessels, regulation of fishing voyages.

(46 USC 27,251-2, 262-3, 319, 531-34, 688, 833)

Mitchell Act

(see Columbia River Basin Fishery Development Act)

Offshore Shrimp Fisheries Act

Implements the U.S.-Brazil Fishing Agreement which provides for a specified area off the Coast of Brazil in which U.S. vessels may fish for shrimp. Also, declares a number of crustacea, including the American lobster, mollusks and sponges, as continental shelf fishery resources. The Sec. of Commerce is authorized to issue permits for a limited number of U.S. documented vessels to engage in fishing in the area of the agreement.

(16 USC 1100b) 87 Stat. 1061, P.L. 93-242)

Rivers and Harbors Act of 1899

Makes it unlawful for anyone to conduct any work or activity in navigable waters of the United States without a Federal permit. Secretary of the Army is authorized to issue permits to construct piers, jetties and similar structures, or to dredge and fill. The Corps of Engineers issues permits for the discharge of refuse affecting navigable waters. The Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act provides authority for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to review and comment as to the effects on fish and wildlife proposed activities would have.

(33 USC 401 et. seq.; 30 Stat. 1151, as amended and supplemented)

Saltonstall-Kennedy Act of 1954

An amended section of the 1939 Acquisition and Disposal of Surplus Fishery Products, which dealt only with the purchase and disposal of surplus fishery products. Directs the Sec. of Agriculture to transfer annually to the Sec. of the Interior, funds equal to 30 of receipts from customs duties on fisheries products. Funds are used to conduct a fishery educational service and research program and the purchase and maintenance of vessels for conducting research. Also funds may be used to develop and increase markets for domestic fishery products.

Tariff Act of 1930

imposes import duties on certain fish and wildlife. Enforced by the U.S. Customs Service in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

(19 USC 1201-1527; 46 Stat. 741)

Recent Legislation

Following is a selected list of legislation passed by the 96th Congress.

H.R. 5604 (Black Bass and Lacey Acts): will consolidate the laws of the Black Bass and Lacey Acts dealing with illegal trade in fish, wildlife or plants; broaden coverage of the present Lacey Act to include wildlife and wildlife parts or products taken in violation of Indian tribal law, and revise the penalty structures and amounts; and authorize the Secretary of the Interior or Secretary of Commerce to suspend, modify, or cancel certain Federal licenses, permits, or stamps.

P.L. 96-118 Anadromous Fish Conservation Act (S. 838): amends the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act to extend the authorization for appropriations for fiscal years 1980, 1981, and 1982 to carry out the purposes of the Act and to initiate investigation of the status and decline of the Atlantic striped bass. Also authorizes to be appropriated to the Dept. of the Interior a total of $800,000 for purposes of preparing a plan for a fishery research laboratory on lands owned by the University of Washington on Big Beef Creek, Washington. Also mandates that the aquarium to be built by the City of Baltimore, Maryland shall be designed as the "National Aquarium in Baltimore."

P.L. 96-362 Aquaculture (S. 1650): Provides for the development of aquaculture in the U.S. to promote and encourage aquaculture activities and programs that will result in increased aquacultural production, the coordination of domestic aquaculture efforts, the conservation and enhancement of aquatic resources, the creation of new industries and job opportunities, and other national benefits.

P.L. 96-365 (S. 1125): Amends the Federal Crop Insurance Act to establish an expanded and comprehensive Federal Crop Insurance program for farmers. Authorizes the Sec. of Agriculture to provide certain disaster assistance and insurance to farmers of agricultural commodities (expanded to include aquacultural species that are propagated or reared in a controlled or selected environment).

P.L. 96-438 (S. 985): Amends the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act, authorizing the Sec. of Agriculture to make and insure loans to farmers, ranchers, or other persons including those engaged in aquacultural activities, who have been substantially affected by a natural disaster or by a major disaster or emergency designated as such by the President.

P.L. 96-592 (S. 1465): Revises the Farm Credit System to serve current needs of the agriculture industry. A major provision of the Act allows Federal loan banks to make long-term loans to producers and harvesters of aquatic products, and authorizes farm credit system institutions to provide borrowers, members, and applicants financially-related services appropriate to their aquatic operations.

P.L. 96-339 Atlantic Tunas (S. 2549): Authorizes appropriations for fiscal years 1981, 1982, and 1983 for the Atlantic Tunas Convention Act. The Act authorizes the Secretary of Commerce to establish a 100% observer program under which a U.S. observer will be stationed aboard each foreign vessel within the fishery conservation zone. A Foreign Fishing Observer Fund is established to be available to the Secretary as a revolving fund for the purposes of carrying out the observer program. Also establishes five new positions on the ICCAT advisory committee.

P.L. 96-199 Channel Islands National Park (H. R. 3757): Authorizes the development of the Channel Islands National Park in the State of California, which will include San Miguel, Prince, Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, Anacapa, and Santa Barbara Islands, including the rocks, islets, submerged lands, and waters within one nautical mile of each island. The Act directs the Secretary of the Interior to develop, a natural resources study report for the park, including an inventory of all terrestrial and marine species, indicating their population dynamics, and probable trends as to future numbers and welfare. Also authorizes the Secretary to conduct a study relating to the use of lands in the area for purposes of wind energy research. The Secretary is further authorized to issue permits for use of such land as a site for installation and field testing of an experimental wind turbine generating system.

P.L. 96-460 Chesapeake Bay Research (H.R. 4417): Establishes within the Dept. of Commerce a separate office for Chesapeake Bay Research Coordination to act as a clearinghouse for information on research conducted concerning Chesapeake Bay. The Act establishes a Chesapeake Bay Research Coordination Board with the responsibility to create a comprehensive research plan and to advise the Congress of the consistency of Federal research efforts.

P.L. 96-464 Coastal Zone Management Improvement Act (S. 2622): Appropriations through FY 85 at a level of $48 million for administrative grants, $20 million for resource management improvement grants, $3 million for interstate grants, $9 million for estuarine sanctuaries, and $6 million for program administration funds. Also provides $75 million each for fiscal years 1980 through 1988 for OCS formula grants and funds at a level of $150 million for planning, OCS participation, and coal and alternative ocean energy impacts. In addition, the Act authorizes the Secretary of Commerce to make grants up to 80% of the cost of administering a state's Federally-approved coastal zone management plan; and to provide 50% matching grants to coastal states to acquire, develop, or operate estuarine areas and also for preservation of islands.

P.L. 96-262 Commercial Fisheries R & D (H.R. 4890): Authorizes appropriations for the Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Act at the following levels:
$10 million per year for fiscal years 81-83 for cooperative state-Federal research and development projects;
$5 million per year for fiscal years 81-83 for disaster relief;
$500,000 per year for fiscal years 81-83 for the development of a new commercial fisheries.

P.L. 96-609 Duties/Fish Nets & Netting (H.R. 5047): Provides for the temporary suspension of certain duties, and extends certain existing suspensions of duties. A major provision of the Act provides duty-free treatment for the purchase and cost of repair of tuna purse seine nets and netting for any U.S.-documented purse seine vessel of 500 tons carrying capacity or greater or for any U.S.-documented purse seine vessel required to carry a certificate of inclusion issued pursuant to the provisions of the Marine Mammal Protection Act.

P.L. 96-69 Endangered Species Act (H.R. 4388), Public Works Appropriations for FY 1980/ Tellico Dam Project: Appropriates funds for energy supply and water development activities at a level of $2.1 billion for fiscal year 1980. Among other things, the Act exempts the Tellico Dam project of the Tennessee Valley Authority from the provisions of the Endangered Species Act and all provisions of all other Federal laws.

P.L. 96-61 Fishery Conservation and Management Act (S. 917): Amends the FCMA of 1976 to authorize appropriations for programs under the Act at a level of $33 million for FY 80, $40 million for FY 81, and $47 million for FY 82.

The Act also prohibits foreign-built fishing vessels flying the U.S. flag from fishing within the 200-mile fishery conservation zone of the U.S., expanding the prior prohibition which only applied within 3 miles of U.S. shores.
The Act establishes a procedure designed to protect whales, similar to that established by the "Pelly Amendment" to the Fishermen's Protective Act of 1967. Under section 3 of the Act, the Secretary of Commerce has the authority to certify whenever nationals of a foreign country are conducting whaling operations or engaging in trade or taking under circumstances which diminish the effectiveness of the International Whaling Commission (IWC). If and when any nation is found to be in violation of the IWC by the Secretary, the Secretary of State is required to reduce immediately the unharvested portion of any allocation of fish to such nation under the FCMA by not less than 50%.
Section 4 of the Act provides for the documentation of the Norwegian built vessel, Widow Maker, as a vessel of the U.S., allowing the vessel to be used in the coastwide trade or as a charter fishing vessel in the fisheries of the United States.

Ocean Dumping/Marine Sanctuaries:

P.L. 96-332 (S. 1140): The Act authorizes appropriations for Title III (marine sanctuaries) of the Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act at a level of $3 million for FY 80 and $4 million for FY 81.

P.L. 96-381 (S. 1123): The Act authorizes appropriations for Title II (ocean dumping) of the Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act at a level of $11.4 million for FY 81 and $12 million for FY 82. The Act authorizes the Secretary of Commerce, through NOAA, to make scientific assessments of damages to natural resources from oil spills.

P.L. 96-572 (S. 1148): The Act authorizes appropriations under Title I (permit program and regulation of transportation of materials for ocean dumping) of the Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act at a level of $2 million a year for FY 81 and 82. Under the Act, EPA is authorized to regulate dumping of waste in the ocean and to monitor existing dumpsites. The Act includes the Long Island Sound within the area covered by the Ocean Dumping Act with respect to dredge spoil, and authorizes EPA to conduct a study aimed at helping the city of New York cope with its sewage sludge disposal problems.

Ocean Pollution R&D:

P.L. 96-17 (H.R. 2520): The Act amends section 10 of the National Ocean Pollution Research and Development and Monitoring Planning Act to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 1980 at a level of $4,300,000.

P.L. 96-255 (H.R. 6615): The Act authorizes funds at a total of $3 million for FY 81 and $4 million for FY 82 to carry out the National Ocean Pollution Research and Development and Monitoring Planning Act. In addition, the new Act is entitled "The National Ocean Pollution Planning Act"; and the reporting date is September of the odd years.

P.L. 96-561 Pacific N.W. Salmon/Fisheries Promotion (S. 2163): The Act combines two major pieces of legislation into a single law.
Title I - Conservation and Enhancement of Salmon and Steelhead Resources.
Title I of the Act establishes a salmon and steelhead management and enhancement program applying to the Columbia River and the State of Washington. The Secretary is authorized to establish a program to provide grants to prepare for coordinated research, enforcement, enhancement, and management. $3 million is authorized for this purpose. The Secretary of the Interior, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce, will provide grants for enhancement projects as part of a comprehensive plan. $45 million is authorized for the 10-year period beginning on October 1, 1982 for Washington and $25 million is authorized for the same period for the Columbia River. $7 million is authorized for steelhead enhancement for both states for the same period of time. The Secretary of Commerce is authorized to implement a commercial and charter fishing vessel buy-back program. This program would be based on a plan submitted by the State of Washington. $37.5 million is authorized for the buy-back program for the 5-year period beginning October 1, 1981.
A separate authorization at a level of $5 million is provided to the Secretary of Commerce for the purpose of developing fisheries port facilities in the State of Oregon.
A separate section of the Act gives Congressional approval to the United States-Portugal Governing International Fisheries Agreement.
Title II - Promotion of American Fisheries
A number of amendments are made to the Saltonstall-Kennedy Act relative to the availability and use of funds for fisheries research and development projects.
The Secretary of Commerce is authorized to appoint six U.S. fishery trade officers to promote U.S. fishing interests.
Title XI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, is amended to broaden its coverage to include fishery facilities on land as well as fishing vessels. The Secretary is also authorized to guarantee obligations for fishing vessels and fishery facilities used for underutilized fisheries.
The Fisheries Loan Fund established under the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956 is extended until September 30, 1982, for the purpose of providing loans to fishermen to avoid defaults on obligations covering fishing vessels.
The Fishery Conservation and Management Act (FCMA) is amended to provide for a means to reduce foreign fishing within the United States fishery conservation zone. The Act also revises the criteria upon which the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce shall base determinations on the allocation of allowable levels of foreign fishing. The Act prescribes a higher level of fees to be assessed foreign nations desiring to fish within the fishery conservation zone and establishes a program for observer coverage of foreign fishing activities conducted within the fishery conservation zone.
A technical amendment is made to the FCMA to change the name of the Act to the "Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act."
The final sections of this new Act make a number of amendments to the Fishermen's Protective Act. These amendments, in part, extend the time within which an owner or operator of a fishing vessel who suffered damage to his vessel or gear could apply for compensation under section 10 of the Act. A similar extension is made to commercial fishermen who may have suffered damages as a result of oil and gas activities being conducted on the United States Outer Continental Shelf.

P.L. 96-478 Pollution From Ships (MARPOL) (Fisheries Loan Fund) (H.R. 6665): The Act implements the Protocol of 1978, known as the "Marpol Protocol," to protect the marine environment through the establishment of pollution prevention standards and other requirements for tankers. The Act delegates to the Secretary of Transportation the authority to administer the provisions of the Act. The Act requires that port owners maintain "reception facilities," holding tanks, or other secure storage facilities for oil and hazardous wastes which a ship might carry in ballast after delivering a cargo.
In addition, the Act extends the Fisheries Loan Fund through FY 82 at a level of $6 million to provide loans to vessel owners who have been adversely affected by current economic conditions, including those whose vessel financing was guaranteed by the Government under the Fishing Vessel Obligation Guarantee Program.

P.L. 96-289 National Sea Grant Program (H.R. 6614): The Act authorizes funds for the National Sea Grant Program for fiscal years 1981-1983.
These funds will be provided to colleges and universities for marine related research, education, and advisory services.
The Act, among other things, instructs the Director of the Office of Sea Grant/NOAA to encourage cooperation and coordination with other Federal programs concerned with ocean and coastal resource conservation and usage; permits members of the sea Grant Review panel to serve two full terms; brings the Great Lakes specifically within the mandate of the basic statute; and provides for the renting of rooms to conduct meetings with potential beneficiaries of Sea Grant Services.
In addition, the Act amends the Fishermen's Protective Act to extend from 60 to 90 days the time period during which fishermen, whose vessel or gear is damaged by foreign or U.S. fishing activity within the 200-mile fishery conservation zone, can file claims for damages.

Executive Director: Irwin M. Alperin
Assistant Director: Elizabeth Harrington

The Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission was established by a compact entered into by the various Atlantic coastal states beginning in 1941. The Congressional Consent Act was signed by the President on May 5, 1942, and the Commission met and organized in New York on June 5, 1942.

Participating states are Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Each is represented by a member of their administrative agency in charge of marine fisheries, a legislative member appointed by its committee or the commission on interstate cooperation, and a person appointed by the Governor. The Commission is supported by appropriations from the member states based on the value of their respective catches.

Operates through sections composed of groups of states. The North Atlantic, Middle Atlantic, Chesapeake Bay, and South Atlantic Sections deal with matters affecting their respective areas, and the annual meeting addresses matters affecting the entire Commission. The National Marine Fisheries Service of the Dept. of Commerce is designated as the primary research agency of the Commission, cooperating with the research agencies of each state for that purpose.

Although the states determine all policy in their respective jurisdictions, the Commission provides a forum for discussion and resolution of common problems and assists the states in developing joint programs. In addition, the Commission conducts the Interstate Marine Fisheries Program under the auspices of the National Marine Fisheries Service, the goal of which is uniform management and protection of the Nation's fisheries resources and viable commercial and recreational fishing industries. The Commission is also a statutory member of the Atlantic Coast Regional Fishery Management Councils, three of the eight established by the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976.

The Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission was established by a compact entered into by the various Gulf Coast states in 1949.

The participating states are Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Each is represented by a member of their administrative agency in charge of marine fisheries, a legislative member appointed by the state legislatures and a person appointed by the governor. The Commission is supported by appropriations from the member states based on the value of their respective catches.

Although the states determine all policy in their respective jurisdictions, the Commission provides a forum for discussion and resolution of common problems and assists the states in 3-mile limits, developing joint programs. In addition, the Commission participates in the State-Federal Fisheries Management Program, whose goal is uniform management and protection of the Nation's fisheries resources and viable commercial and recreational fishing industries.

Commercial projects concern those fisheries in state waters. Fisheries beyond the states' three-mile limits are the responsibility of the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council, to which the Commission has an appointed representative.

Commissioners:

Alabama

John. M. McMillan, Jr., director, Ala. Dept. of Conservation and Natural Resources, Montgomery; State Rep. Taylor F. Harper, Grand Bay; John Ray Nelson, Bon Secour.

Florida

Dr. Elton J. Gissendanner, executive director, Fla. Dept. of Natural Resources, Tallahassee; State Rep. Joseph B. Allen, Jr., Keywest; Clyde Richbourg, American Seafood Company, Pensacola.

Operated under the authority of a convention originally entered into by the Republic of Costa Rica and the U.S. in 1950. Principal duties are to study the biology, ecology and population dynamics of the tunas and related species in the Eastern Pacific Ocean. Also determines the effects that fishing and natural factors have on stock abundance. Recommends appropriate conservation measures to maintain stocks at their maximum sustainable yields.

Shares of funding are based on the amount of tuna taken from the area by each country. The U.S. is assessed for between 85% and 90% of the Commission's total funding.

The staff consists of approximately 30 scientists, 15 technicians and five administrative members who operate from the headquarters at La Jolla and the field offices at Terminal Island, Calif., Mayaguez, P.R.; Ensenada, Baja California, Mexico; and Panama, Ecuador and Peru.

Tel: (604) 521-3771

Director: A.C. Cooper

Established by convention between the United States and Canada in 1937 and amended by protocol in 1957 for the protection, preservation and extension of the sockeye and pink salmon fisheries in the Fraser River system.

Six commissioners are appointed by the Governor General of Canada and the President of the United States, three from each country and all expenses of the commission are borne equally by each country.

Regulates the closing and opening of fishing periods and areas in any fishing season. Regulates the fisheries to allow an equal portion to U.S. and Canadian fishermen of pink and sockeye salmon to be caught each year. Endeavors to secure proper escapements of the pink and sockeye runs. Involved in increasing fisheries resources. Conducts research on the two species.

The advisory committee consists of six persons from each country who are representatives of various branches of the industry, including, but not limited to purse seiners, gillnetters, trollers, sportfishermen and processors.

Canada

H.A. Regier, H.P. Johnston, K.H. Loftus, M.G. Johnson.

Created in 1955 in response to the invasion of the sea lamprey into the upper Great Lakes that was disatrous to the sport and commercial fisheries.

Duties include monitoring the status of fish stocks, the levels of exploitation and habitat conditions. The commission also conducts research programs for the rehabilitation of the Lakes, resolves boundary disputes between the U.S. and Canada, conducts a sea lamprey control program and develops joint management plans for the U.S. and Canada. Also acts as liaison between the two country's regulatory agencies.

FAO has no fisheries programs in North America. The two offices maintain libraries that are available for research. However, they do not lend publications. FAO publishes several books and reports including an annual, Yearbook of Fishery Statistics. It also conducts several conferences concerning world fisheries. Dates of conferences are available from the above offices.

Books published by FAO are listed in the "Directory of Book Publishers and Books."

The following are other documents available from Uni Pub, 345 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10010, Tel: (212) 686-4707

FAO Fisheries Reports

A series of reports of conferences, committees, commissions, working parties, surveys and other activities of the FAO Department of Fisheries.

FAO/UNDP Reports

A series of reports of surveys, seminars, training centers and other activities of the FAO Department of Fisheries under the United Nations Development Program.

FAO Fisheries Technical Papers

These documents, given restricted distribution, are prepared mostly as papers for conferences, committees, commissions, working parties, seminars and training centers, or as summaries of compendia of information for use of member governments, organizations and specialists.

FAO Fisheries Circulars

These documents, given very restricted distribution, are mostly short notes, instructions for the completion of statistical forms and questionnaires and lists on various topics or provisional versions of documents which may eventually be issued in final form in one of the preceding series. Some circulars, presenting statistical tables with provisional data, are prepared as papers for conferences, committees, commissions and working parties. They may eventually be issued after revision in the Yearbook or Bulletin of Fishery Statistics.

The first session of the Third U.N. Law of the Sea Conference was held in 1974 in Caracas, Venezuela, and since there have been yearly extensions with the delegations meeting alternately in Geneva and New York.

The Conference is probably the most ambitious international treaty negotiation ever undertaken with some 157 nations participating. Because of the large number of negotiators and because the Conference has agreed that any treaty will be a complete "package," the outlook for total agreement is unlikely.

However, the issue of commercial fishing was one of the first issues to be unofficially settled. Generally, the international community has agreed to the 200-mile fisheries conservation zone concept with the exception of Latin American nations which have decreed 200-mile territorial seas. "Territorial" seas can limit freedom of navigation, overflight and research.

The Conference has basically been divided into two camps — one being the developed countries and the other the "Third World" or underdeveloped nations. In 1978, the largest controversy was still the question of deep sea mining of minerals. The U.N. has agreed that deep sea minerals — including manganese nodules — are the property of mankind, and the wealth is to be shared with all the nations of the world. The underdeveloped nations call for strict control of any offshore mining while developed nations are trying to negotiate limited controls.

It was doubtful that the controversy would be resolved in the near future and the U.S. was preparing to pass legislation that would protect the investments of U.S. firms that were preparing to begin commercial mining offshore.

The following are the three main Conference committees and the areas of their negotiating responsibilities:

Sub-Committee I

International regime for the sea-bed and ocean floor beyond national jurisdiction: Nature and characteristics; International machinery; structure, functions, powers; Economic implications; equitable sharing of benefits bearing in mind the special interests and needs of the developing countries, whether coastal or land-locked; Definition and limits of the area; Use exclusively for peaceful purposes.

Sub-Committee II

Territorial sea: Nature and characteristics, including the question of the unity or plurality of regimes in the territorial sea; Historic waters; Limits; Question of the delimitation of the territorial sea; Breadth of the territorial sea; Global or regional criteria; Open seas and oceans, semi-enclosed seas and enclosed seas; Innocent passage in the territorial sea; Freedom of navigation and overflight resulting from the question of plurality of regimes in the territorial sea.

Contiguous zone: Nature and characteristics; Limits; Rights of coastal States with regard to national security, customs and fiscal control, sanitation and immigration regulations.

Straits used for international navigation: Innocent passage; Other related matters including the question of the right of transit.

Continental shelf: Nature and scope of the sovereign rights of coastal States over the continental shelf; Duties of States; Outer limitation of the continental shelf; Question of the delimitation between States; Natural resources of the continental shelf; Regime for waters superjacent to the continental shelf; Scientific research.

Exclusive economic zone beyond the territorial sea: Nature and characteristics, including rights and jurisdiction of coastal States in relation to resources, pollution control and scientific research in the zone; Duties of States; Resources of the zone; Freedom of navigation and overflight; Regional arrangements; Fisheries; Exclusive fishery zone; Perferential rights of coastal States; Management and conservation; Protection of coastal State's fisheries in enclosed and semi-enclosed seas; Regime of islands under foreign domination and control in relation to zones of exclusive fishing jurisdiction; Sea-bed within national jurisdiction; Nature and characteristics; Delineation between adjacent and opposite States; Sovereign rights over natural resources; Prevention and control of pollution and other hazards to the marine environment; Rights and responsibilities of coastal States; Scientific research.

Coastal State preferential rights or other non-exclusive jurisdiction over resources beyond the territorial sea: Nature, scope and characteristics; Sea-bed resources; Fisheries; Prevention and control of pollution and other hazards to the marine environment; International co-operation in the study and rational exploitation of marine resources; Settlement of disputes.

High seas: Nature and characteristics; Rights and duties of States; Question of the freedoms of the high seas and their regulation; Management and conservation of living resources; Slavery, piracy and drugs; Hot pursuit.

Land-locked countries: General principles of the law of the sea concerning the land-locked countries; Rights and interests of land-locked countries; Free access to and from the sea, freedom of transit, means and facilities for transport and communications; Equality of treatment in the ports of transit States; Free access to the international sea-bed area beyond national jurisdiction; Participation in the international regime, including the machinery and the equitable sharing in the benefits of the area; Particular interests and needs of developing land-locked countries in the international regime; Rights and interests of land-locked countries in regard to living resources of the sea.

Rights and interests of shelf-locked States and States with narrow shelves or short coastlines; International regime; Fisheries; Special interests and needs of developing shelf-locked States and States with narrow shelves or short coastlines; Free access to and from the high seas.

Rights and interests of States with broad shelves.

Regional arrangements — to be dealt with by each Sub-Committee, in so far as relevant to its mandate.

Archipelagos.

Artificial islands and installations.

Regime of islands: Islands under colonial dependence or foreign domination or control; Other related matters.

Responsibility and liability for damage resulting from the use of the marine environment — to be dealt with by each Sub-Committee, in so far as relevant to its mandate.

Settlement of disputes — to be dealt with by each Sub-Committee, in so far as relevant to its mandate.

Peaceful uses of the ocean space: zones of peace and security.

Sub-Committee III

Preservation of the marine environment: Sources of pollution and other hazards and measures to combat them; Measures to preserve the ecological balance of the marine environment; Responsibility and liability for damage to the marine environment and to the coastal State; Rights and duties of coastal States; International co-operation.

Scientific research: Nature, characteristics and objective of scientific research of the oceans; Access to scientific information; International co-operation.

Development and transfer of technology: Development of technological capabilities of developing countries; Sharing of knowledge and technology between developed and developing countries; Training of personnel from developing countries; Transfer of technology to developing countries.

REVIEW

U.S. LANDINGS. Commercial landings (edible and industrial) by U.S. fishermen at ports in the 50 States were a record 6.5 billion pounds valued at $2.2 billion in 1980, up 3 percent in quantity but about equal in value compared with 1979, the previous record year. Increased landings of salmon, tuna, rockfishes, Atlantic cod, Pacific herring, and crabs offset declines in other major species such as menhaden and anchovies. Prices in 1980 of most edible fish and shellfish declined. The annual average exvessel price index shows a decline of 10 percent in 1980 compared with 1979.

For the third consecutive year the U.S. has established new record landings. The percent of the total U.S. supply of commerical fishery products produced by the U.S. domestic fishery has increased the last 4 years. In 1980 domestic production of total supply was 57.1 percent and imports 42.9 percent. In 1976 the U.S. production accounted for 46.5 percent of total supply.

Commercial landings by U.S. fishermen at ports outside the 50 States and transferred in the U.S. fishery conservation zone (FCZ) onto foreign vessels (joint ventures) were an additional 255.4 million pounds valued at $102.2 million. Most of these consisted of tuna landed at canneries in Puerto Rico and groundfish transferred to foreign vessels.

Edible fish and shellfish landings in the 50 States were a record 3.7 billion pounds in 1980, up 10 percent compared with 1979. Landings of most major species, particularly salmon, increased.

Landings for reduction and other industrial purposes by U.S. fishermen in the 50 States were 2.8 billion pounds in 1980, 4 percent less than 1979. The decrease is attributed to smaller catches of menhaden, the dominant industrial fish, and anchovies.

FOREIGN CATCH IN U.S. FCZ. The foreign catch of fish (excluding tunas) and shellfish in the U.S. fishery conservation zone (FCZ) was 1,631,000 metric tons (3.6 billion pounds) in 1980, 1 percent below 1979, and 22 percent below the average for the 5 preceding years. As in other years, the FCZ off Alaska supplied by far the largest share of the foreign catch, 93 percent; Washington, Oregon, and California, 3 percent; North Atlantic, 4 percent; and Hawaii and the Pacific islands, less than one tenth of 1 percent.

Alaska pollock comprised 69 percent of the foreign catch; Pacific flounders, 11 percent; hake (Pacific whiting), 3 percent; and other fish and shellfish, the remainder.

Japan continued as the leading nation fishing in the U.S. FCZ with a catch of 1.2 million metric tons in 1980. Catches by vessels of the Republic of Korea, Korea, the second most important catching nation, were 210,000 metric tons, 65 percent above 1979.

U.S. VS. FOREIGN CATCH IN U.S. FCZ. The combined catch by U.S. and foreign vessels in the area 3 to 200 nautical miles from U.S. shores, known as the FCZ, was 2.6 million metric tons in 1980, up 3 percent compared with 1979. The rise in the U.S. catch more than offset a decline in the foreign catch, and the U.S. share rose to 36 percent of the total, up from 33 percent in 1979.

AQUACULTURE. Commercial production of selected fish and shellfish through aquaculture techniques is developing in the United States. Current production of marine, brackish, and freshwater species is 148.9 million pounds, of which 84 percent is comprised of freshwater species. Total value of these selected species was $113.6 million in 1980.

MARINE RECREATIONAL CATCH. The data shown in the publication are for the Atlantic Coast and Gulf of Mexico Coast for 1979 and are part of a recently initiated survey of marine recreational fisheries in the United States. Survey results for other areas were not available in time to be included in the publication, but will be published in the next few months. Fisheries of the United States, 1981 will contain data on the total U.S. marine recreational catch.

WORLD LANDINGS. In 1979, the most recent year for which data are available, world commercial fishery landings were a record 71.3 million metric tons, 1 percent more than the revised 1978 total of 70.5 million metric tons. Japan was the leading nation with 14 percent of the total; the USSR, second with 13 percent; China, third with 6 percent; Peru, fourth with 5 percent; and the United States, fifth with 5 percent.

PRICES. During 1980, the Index of Exvessel Prices for Fish and Shellfish declined to 399.9. The index (1967=100) for edible fish was 406.1, down 11 percent from 1979. Among the exceptions to this downward trend were the exvessel prices for ocean perch, red snapper, tuna, whiting, and soft clams, American lobster, Eastern oysters, and sea scallops, all of which increased. The index for industrial fish was 315.6 for 1980, up 3 percent compared with 1979.

PROCESSED PRODUCTS. The 1980 value of domestic production of edible and nonedible processed fishery products was $4.7 billion, 5 percent above 1979. The value of edible products increased to $4.3 billion, 6 percent above 1979. All categories of edible products increased in value. The value of industrial products of $395 million in 1980 was $17.3 million less than 1979.

REVIEW

FOREIGN TRADE. U.S. imports of edible fishery products were 2.1 billion pounds (product weight) valued at a record $2.7 billion in 1980, down 10 percent in quantity, but up 1 percent in value. U.S. imports of nonedible (industrial) products were $966.0 million in 1980, down 16 percent compared with 1979.

The United States exported a record 573.9 million pounds valued at $904.4 million of edible fishery products in 1980, up 4 percent in quantity but down 11 percent in value from 1979. Exports in 1980 of nonedible products were $101.8 million, 64 percent above 1979.

SUPPLY. THE U.S. supply of edible fishery products (domestic landings plus imports, round weight equivalent) was 8.0 billion pounds in 1980, 3 percent less than 1979. The decrease was caused by lower imports of edible fishery products. The supply of industrial fishery products was 3.4 billion pounds in 1980, 6 percent less than 1979. A decrease in domestic landings of industrial products and less imports contributed to this decline.

PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION. U.S. consumption of fishery products was 13.0 pounds of edible meat per person in 1980, down 0.2 pound from 1979.

RECORDS ESTABLISHED

U.S. COMMERCIAL LANDINGS

Volume and value of U.S. commercial landings -- 6.5 billion pounds and $2,237.2 million.... (previous high, 1979 -- 6.3 billion pounds, and $2,233.7 million).

Cod -- $38.0 million....(previous high, 1979 -- $31.3 million).

Rockfishes -- 105.7 million pounds....(previous high, 1979 -- 68.0 million pounds).

Tuna -- $233.1 million....(previous high, 1978 -- $176.9 million).

Crabs -- 523.1 million pounds....(previous high, 1979 -- 489.2 million pounds).

Crab, king -- 185.6 million pounds and $168.7 million....(previous high, 159.2 million pounds, 1965 and 168.1 million, 1978).

U.S. PRODUCTION OF PROCESSED FISHERY PRODUCTS

Value of processed fishery products -- $4.7 billion -- (previous high, $4.5 billion, 1979).

Fish oil -- 311.6 million pounds....(previous high, 1936 -- 299.3 million pounds).

U.S. IMPORTS

Edible fishery products -- $2,682.3 million....(previous high, 1979 -- $2,668.4 million).

U.S. EXPORTS

Edible fishery products -- 573.9 million pounds....(previous high, 1979 -- 553.6 million pounds).

U.S. SUPPLY (DOMESTIC PRODUCTION PLUS IMPORTS)

American lobsters -- 69.2 million pounds....(previous high, 1979 -- 68.3 million pounds).

OTHER IMPORTANT FACTS

Menhaden landings in 1980 of 2,497 million pounds (1,132 thousand metric tons) made up 38 percent of the commercial fishery landings in the United States.

Salmon was the second most important species in both quantity and value.

Crabs were the third most important in both quantity and value.

Tuna was the fourth most important in both quantity and value.

Shrimp was the fifth most important in quantity, but first in value.

Tuna landings by U.S. craft at ports outside the United States amounted to 100.6 million pounds, mostly landed at Puerto Rican ports. Other species landed at ports outside the United States were shrimp, at Central and South American ports and Pacific groundfish onto foreign vessels in the U.S. FCZ.

Cameron, Louisiana, was the leading U.S. port in quantity of commercial fishery landings. The second was San Pedro, California, followed by Pascagoula-Moss Point, Mississippi; Empire-Venice, Louisiana; and Dulac-Chauvin, Louisiana. Menhaden was the principal species landed at these ports, except at San Pedro, where tuna was the principal species.

San Pedro, California was the leading U.S. port in terms of value, followed by San Diego, California; Dutch Harbor, and Kodiak, Alaska; and New Bedford, Massachusetts.

Louisiana led all States in volume of landings with 1,423.4 million pounds, followed by Alaska with 1,053.9 million pounds; California with 804.3 million pounds; Virginia with 637.5 million pounds; and Massachusetts with 438.4 million pounds.

Alaska led all States in value with $560.6 million, followed by California with $323.4 million; Massachusetts with $178.6 million; and Texas with $153.9 million.

REVIEW

IMPORTANT SPECIES

ALASKA POLLOCK AND OTHER PACIFIC TRAWL FISH. U.S. landings of Pacific trawl fish (Alaska pollock, Pacific cod, flounders, hake (Pacific whiting), ocean perch, and rockfishes) were 207.7 million pounds valued at $42.2 million, up 8 percent in volume and 9 percent in value compared with 1979. Decreases in landings of flounders (12 percent), ocean perch (7 percent), Alaska pollock (45 percent), and hake (61 percent) were offset primarily by a 55 percent increase in rockfishes but also a 59 percent increase in Pacific cod. An additional catch of 137.7 million pounds of Pacific trawl fish valued at $8.4 million was caught by U.S. fishermen and unloaded to foreign vessels in the U.S. FCZ. Efforts to increase the use of Pacific groundfish by U.S. processors was slightly affected this year with the failure of one firm in Alaska handling these fish and another Alaska firm shutting down its groundfish processing lines. However, the introduction of a large U.S. factory trawler and an experimental floating processor in the Bering Sea partially offset these events.

The foreign catch of trawl fish in the Pacific U.S. FCZ was 1.6 million metric tons, a decline of 2 percent compared to 1979. About 84 percent of this catch was in the Eastern Bering Sea, 13 percent in the Gulf of Alaska, and the remaining 3 percent off Washington, Oregon, and California. Alaska pollock was the leading species caught (1.1 million metric tons), followed by Pacific flounders (181,800 metric tons), and Pacific cod (71,600 metric tons). Japan and South Korea were the major fishing nations.

ANCHOVIES. U.S. landings of anchovies in 1980 were 106.9 million pounds, a decline of 10.5 million pounds (9 percent) compared with 1979. In 1980, 103.7 million pounds were used for industrial purposes, with 88.9 million pounds or 86 percent of the anchovies reduced to meal, oil, and solubles. Another 13.8 million pounds or 13 percent was used for bait, mostly live bait for sport fishing. The remaining 982,000 pounds was used for pet food. Most of the anchovies were caught in purse seines, although some were taken with lampara nets.

HALIBUT. U.S. landings of Atlantic and Pacific halibut were 19.2 million pounds (round weight) valued at $16.8 million, down 2.2 million pounds and $1.8 million compared with 1979. The Pacific fishery accounted for 99 percent of the 1980 total. The average exvessel price per pound in 1980 was 88 cents compared with $1.62 in 1979.

HERRING, SEA. U.S. commercial landings of sea herring were 291.1 million pounds valued at $45.0 million in 1980, up 39 percent in volume and down 4 percent in value compared with 1979. Landings of Atlantic sea herring were 184.0 million pounds valued at $10.4 million, up 28 percent in quantity and 23 percent in value from 1979. Landings of Pacific sea herring were 107.1 million pounds valued at $34.6 million, an increase of 41.4 million pounds (63 percent) and a decrease of $3.8 million (10 percent) in value. The average exvessel price per pound of Pacific sea herring decreased from 58 cents in 1979 to 32 cents in 1980.

JACK AND PACIFIC MACKEREL. Landings in California were 109.1 million pounds valued at $9.8 million, up 16 percent in quantity and 46 percent in value from 1979. Jack mackerel comprised 41 percent and Pacific mackerel 59 percent of the total. This is the second year in a row that the catch of Pacific mackerel exceeded that of jack mackerel.

Prior to 1978, the State of California prohibited the landings of a pure trip of Pacific mackerel, and the incidental take was limited to 18 percent for a trip. The reason for more Pacific mackerel landings in 1979 and 1980 was simply an increase in near-shore abundance and the removal of the State of California regulations.

MACKEREL, ATLANTIC. U.S. landings of Atlantic mackerel in 1980 were 5.9 million pounds with an exvessel value of $816,000--1.4 million pounds more than in 1979 but a decline of $243,000 in value. Massachusetts was the leading State with landings of 2.6 million pounds (43 percent), followed by New Jersey with 1.6 million pounds (27 percent). The average exvessel price per pound in 1980 was 14 cents compared with 24 cents in 1979.

MENHADEN. U.S. menhaden landings were 2.5 billion pounds valued at $112.0 million in 1980, down 107.8 million pounds or 4 percent in quantity but an increase of $2.6 million or 2 percent in value compared with 1979. Landings in the Atlantic States increased by 7 percent while the Gulf States declined again in 1980 by 10 percent. Over 99 percent of the total landings were reduced to meal, oil, and solubles; the rest was used for bait or for canned pet food.

Landings along the Atlantic Coast were 948.9 million pounds worth $42.9 million in 1980, an increase of 7 percent in quantity and 19 percent in value compared with 1979. Of this amount, 906.5 million pounds were used for reduction in 1980, the remainder for bait.

Landings of Gulf menhaden were 1.6 billion pounds compared with the 1979 landings of 1.7 billion pounds and 14 percent less than the record year 1978 when 1.8 billion pounds were landed. Gulf Coast landings in June and July were the highest during the year when 280.7 and 349.7 million pounds were landed.

NORTH ATLANTIC TRAWL FISH. North Atlantic groundfish landings in 1980 were 460.0 million pounds (208,660 metric tons) valued at $145.6 million, in 1980 valued at $145.6 million, up 12 percent in quantity and 7 percent in value compared to the 411.3 million pounds valued at $136.5 million landed in 1979. Fish included are: butterfish, Atlantic cod, cusk, flounders, haddock, red and white hake, Atlantic ocean perch, pollock, and whiting (silver hake). Flounders led in value of these species, accounting for 46 percent of the total, cod second with 22 percent, and haddock third with 15 percent.

IMPORTANT SPECIES

Atlantic cod and haddock, managed under an FMP since 1977, have shown a marked increase in landings since 1976 when landings were 56.0 million and 12.8 million pounds respectively. In 1980 cod landings were 118.2 million pounds and haddock 55.2 million pounds. Yellowtail flounder have also been managed under an FMP since 1977, but landings have not shown a substantial increase. Yellowtail landings in 1976 were 38.0 million pounds and 42.6 million pounds in 1980.

Foreign catches in the North Atlantic FCZ in 1980 were 71,714 metric tons, a 12 percent increase compared with 64,106 metric tons in 1979. Canada was the leading country with 40 percent, Spain second with 24 percent, Japan third with 15 percent, and Italy fourth with 13 percent. Other countries fishing the area were Cuba, Mexico, Faroe Islands, Poland, and Romania. Squid catches of 38,124 metric tons led all species caught (51 percent). Other species in order of significance were haddock (13 percent), cod (9 percent), pollock (7 percent), and sea scallops (7 percent).

PACIFIC SALMON. U.S. commercial landings were 613.8 million pounds valued at $352.3 million, an increase of 77.7 million pounds or 14 percent and a decrease of $60.5 million or 15 percent compared with 1979. Excellent runs again of pink and red salmon in Alaska were the major factors for the increase. Alaska accounted for 92 percent of the total landings; Washington, 6 percent; and California and Oregon, 1 percent each. A small catch of 2,000 pounds of silver salmon were made in the Great Lakes.

Alaska salmon landings in 1980, the largest since 1941, were 567.1 million pounds, up 99.3 million pounds or 21 percent from 1979. The value of Alaska salmon was $286.6 million, down $18.2 million or 6 percent compared with 1979. Pink salmon landings in Alaska were 253.5 million pounds, the greatest since 1942. Landings of red salmon were 204.4 million pounds, up 13 percent from 1979 and up 114.7 million pounds or 128 percent from 1978. Chum salmon landings were 74.4 million pounds, up 67 percent and silver salmon landings in Alaska were 23.2 million pounds, up 1 percent from 1979. Chinook salmon showed the only decrease in Alaska with 11.6 million pounds, down 21 percent from 1979.

Salmon landings in Washington in 1980 were 33.8 million pounds valued at $39.8 million. Compared with 1979, landings of pink (11,000 pounds) and red (3.1 million pounds) decreased by 21.9 million pounds and 6.8 million pounds respectively. The largest increase was for chum salmon which rose from 1.3 million pounds in 1979 to 10.6 million pounds in 1980. There was a slight increase in chinook landings from 6.3 million pounds in 1979 to 7.6 million pounds in 1980.

Salmon landings in Oregon were 7.0 million pounds valued at $12.7 million, down 3.5 million pounds in quantity and $8.5 million in value compared with 1979. The only increase was for chum salmon which went from 1,000 in 1979 to 2,000 pounds in 1980. Landings of pink salmon went from 127,000 pounds in 1979 to 1,000 pounds in 1980. Silver salmon declined 46 percent (2.7 million pounds) and chinook by 16 percent (696,000 pounds) compared with 1979.

California salmon landings decreased from 8.8 million pounds in 1979 to 5.9 million pounds in 1980. Chinook landings declined from 7.6 million pounds in 1979 to 5.6 million pounds and silver salmon went from 1.2 million pounds in 1979 to 300,000 pounds in 1980. The 1980 value ($13.1 million) for salmon in California decreased by 32 percent compared with 1979.

SABLEFISH. U.S. commercial landings of sablefish were only 22.1 million pounds valued at $5.4 million in 1980. This was a decline of 26.3 million pounds (54 percent) compared with 1979, a record year, and $9.4 million (64 percent) in value. Landings in all Pacific States declined--California, 8.3 million pounds (down 55 percent); Oregon, 5.9 million (64 percent); Washington, 3.1 millions (48 percent); and Alaska, 4.8 million pounds (down 35 percent) compared with 1979. The average exvessel price per pound in 1980 was 24 cents compared with 31 cents in 1979.

TUNA. Landings of tuna in 1980 by U.S. fishermen at ports in the 50 States, Puerto Rico, American Samoa, and other U.S. territories and foreign ports were 500.0 million pounds, valued at $289.3 million, down 2 percent in quantity but up 34 percent in value from 1979. The quantity landed was 10 percent below the average for the previous 5 years. The average exvessel price per pound for all species of tuna for 1980 was 58 cents compared to 42 cents in 1979.

Bigeye landings in 1980 were 7.0 million pounds, up from 2.9 million pounds (140 percent) in 1979. The average exvessel price per pound was 58 cents in 1980 compared to 78 cents in 1979.

Skipjack landings in 1980 were 235.0 million pounds, up 40.2 million pounds (21 percent) from 1979 and still above the average for the past five years. The average exvessel price per pound in 1980 was 54 cents compared to 37 cents in 1979.

Yellowfin landings were 231.6 million pounds in 1980, down 46.4 million pounds (17 percent) from 1979. The average exvessel price in 1980 was 60 cents compared with 44 cents in 1979.

Bluefin landings were 8.1 million pounds in 1980, down 7.9 million pounds (49 percent) from 1979. The average exvessel price per pound was 88 cents in 1980 compared to 58 cents in 1979.

Almost 80 percent of the tuna landings were at ports in the continental United States (principally California, with 96 percent of continental landings).

NMFS and the U.S. Coast Guard closely regulate fishing for yellowfin tuna by U.S. fishermen in a major producing area of the eastern Pacific Ocean known as the Commission's Yellowfin Regulatory Area (CYRA). The regulation is in response to recommendations of the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission (IATTC).

CLAMS. Landings of all species yielded 95.4 million pounds of meats worth $90.2 million in 1980. Compared with 1979, landings increased 3.3 million pounds (4 percent) and $11.0 million (14 percent) in value in 1980. The exvessel price rose from 86 cents in 1979 to 95 cents in 1980.

Surf clams yielded 37.7 million pounds of meats valued at $19.1 million, up 2.8 million pounds or 8 percent, but down in value by $166,000 or 1 percent compared with 1979. Virginia was the leading State with 14.4 million pounds; followed by Maryland, 11.4 million; New Jersey, 9.6 million; and New York, 2.0 million pounds. The average exvessel price per pound for surf clams went down from 55 cents in 1979 to 51 cents in 1980.

The ocean quahog fishery produced 33.8 million pounds of meats valued at $10.2 million in 1980, a decrease of 892,000 pounds or 3 percent and $46,000 compared with 1979. New Jersey was the leading producer in the United States with 22.5 million pounds of meats, accounting for 67 percent of the total landings of ocean quahog. Maryland was second with 7.7 million pounds or 23 percent, followed by Rhode Island, 3.6 million pounds or 10 percent. The average exvessel price per pound of meat was 30 cents in 1980 compared with 29 cents in 1979.

The hard clam fishery produced 13.4 million pounds of meats valued at $44.1 million. This was an increase of 1.3 million pounds of meats or 11 percent and $10.3 million or 31 percent over 1979. Landings in the Middle Atlantic region (mostly New York) were 5.9 million pounds; New England, 4.4 million; South Atlantic, 1.8 million; Chesapeake, 795,000; and the Pacific, 477,000 pounds of meats. Average exvessel price per pound of meats in 1980 was $3.30 compared to $2.80 in 1979.

Soft clams yielded 8.9 million pounds of meats valued at $15.4 million. This was an increase of 363,000 pounds or 4 percent and $1.6 million or 12 percent in value over 1979. Maine was the leading State with 5.7 million pounds or 63 percent of the total catch, followed by Maryland with 1.9 million pounds of meats. The average exvessel price per pound of meats was $1.72 in 1980 compared with $1.60 for 1979.

CRABS. Landings of all species of crabs were a record 523.1 million pounds valued at $291.4 million, an increase of 33.9 million pounds or 7 percent in quantity and $7.1 million or 2 percent in value over 1979. Landings increased for major species except snow (tanner) and dungeness crabs.

Hard blue crab landings were 163.2 million pounds valued at $35.2 million, an increase of 10.4 million pounds or 7 percent and $3.7 million or 12 percent compared with 1979. Blue crab landings in the Chesapeake States of 63.3 million pounds decreased 1 percent from 1979. Blue crab landings in the South Atlantic States were 55.0 million pounds, up 12 percent; Middle Atlantic, 3.9 million pounds, up 197 percent; and landings in the Gulf States, 41.1 million pounds, up 8 percent over 1979. The average exvessel price per pound of crabs in 1980 was 22 cents compared with 21 cents in 1979.

Dungeness crab landings were 38.3 million pounds worth $21.6 million, a decrease of 412,000 pounds and $9.4 million (30 percent) compared with 1979. The average exvessel price per pound went from 80 cents in 1979 down to 56 cents in 1980. Oregon led with landings of 18.6 million pounds, up 25 percent from 1979. Landings in California decreased 25 percent; Washington, 18 percent; and Alaska decreased 7 percent when compared with 1979.

U.S. landings of king crabs were 185.6 million pounds, valued at $168.7 million to the fishermen. This harvest set a new record passing the previous high of 159.2 million pounds landed in 1966. The fishery in the Bering Sea continued to expand in 1980, and reached 158.4 million pounds, valued at $156.0 million. The exvessel price per pound reached $1.01 for 1980 compared with 96 cents in 1979. Landings in the Gulf of Alaska were 27.2 million pounds with an average exvessel price of $1.07 per pound compared with 22.0 million pounds landed in 1979 and valued at 95 cents per pound.

Snow (tanner) crab landings were 121.7 million pounds, valued at $55.2 million--a decrease of 9.7 million pounds or 7 percent from 1979, a record year for landings, and a decrease of $9.7 million or 15 percent in value. Landings taken in the Bering Sea of the smaller Chionoecetes opilio were 39.4 million pounds while C. bairdi landings were 37.8 million pounds. Landings of C. bairdi from the Gulf of Alaska were 44.5 million pounds, down 12.1 million pounds or 21 percent from 1979. The average price per pound for 1980 was 45 cents compared with 49 cents in 1979.

LOBSTER, AMERICAN. Landings of American lobster in 1980 were 37.0 million pounds valued at $75.2 million--down 232,000 pounds (1 percent) and up $2.9 million (4 percent) compared with 1979. The average exvessel price per pound was $2.04 in 1980 compared with $1.94 in 1979. Maine, the principal producing State landed 22.0 million pounds, about 1 percent less than the previous year. Massachusetts landings of 9.7 million pounds declined by only 18,000 pounds from the previous year. Rhode Island landings of 2.4 million pounds increased by 128,000 pounds compared with 1979.

IMPORTANT SPECIES

LOBSTER, SPINY. U.S. landings of spiny lobster were 6.9 million pounds valued at $14.8 million in 1980, up 560,000 pounds (9 percent) and $2.0 million (16 percent) from 1979. The average exvessel price per pound was $2.16 compared with $2.03 in 1979. Florida landings accounted for 95 percent of the total landings and 93 percent of the value.

OYSTERS. U.S. landings in 1980 yielded 49.1 million pounds of meats valued at $70.1 million, an increase of 1.0 million pounds or 2 percent in quantity and $4.5 million or 7 percent in value compared with 1979. Chesapeake States led in production with 20.8 million pounds of meat, followed by the Gulf States with 16.5 million pounds. Landings increased slightly in all areas except in the Middle Atlantic States where it declined by 13 percent.

SHRIMP. U.S. landings were 339.7 million pounds (heads-on) valued at $402.7 million--up 11 percent in volume but down 15 percent in value compared with 1979. The average exvessel price per pound for 1980 was $1.19 compared to $1.40 in 1979. Shrimp landings increased in the South Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific States but declined in the New England States.

Gulf landings of 208.3 million pounds were up only 1 percent over 1979. Louisiana led all States with 88.7 million pounds (up 11 percent), followed by Texas, 74.1 million pounds (up 10 percent) above 1979.

SCALLOPS. U.S. landings of all species yielded 29.7 million pounds worth $114.3 million in 1980--down 4.4 million pounds or 13 percent in quantity but up $2.5 million or 2 percent in value from 1979. The average exvessel price per pound in 1980 was $3.85 compared to $3.28 in 1979.

U.S. bay scallop landings in 1980 of 968,000 pounds of meats valued at $3.9 million were down 806,000 pounds or 45 percent in quantity and $2.9 million or 43 percent in value compared with 1979. Massachusetts, the leading State in 1979 with 1.1 million pounds, had only 201,000 pounds in 1980. The average exvessel price per pound for bay scallops was $4.02 in 1980 compared to $3.83 in 1979.

Sea scallop landings were 28.8 million pounds valued at $110.4 million in 1980--down 2.7 million pounds or 9 percent in quantity and an increase in value of $7.2 million or 7 percent compared with 1979. Average exvessel price per pound in 1980 was $3.84 compared with $3.28 in 1979.

REVIEW

PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION

PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION. U.S. per capita consumption of fish and shellfish was 13.0 pounds (edible meat) in 1980. This was 0.2 pound less than the 13.2 pounds consumed in 1979. All of this decrease was in canned fishery products which fell to 4.6 pounds per person, down 0.3 from 1979. Canned tuna was responsible for the total decrease, falling from 3.3 pounds in 1979 to 3.0 in 1980. Fresh and frozen fish and shellfish increased to 8.1 pounds per person in 1980, up 0.1 pound from 1979 and partly offsetting the decrease in canned. Fresh and frozen salmon increased 0.4 pound per person, up 0.2 pound from 1979. There was also an increase of 0.2 pound in other fish. Balancing out these increases in consumption of fresh and frozen fish was a decline of 0.4 pound in consumption of groundfish fillets and blocks. Per capita consumption of fresh and frozen shellfish moved up 0.1 pound due to a 0.1 pound increase in fresh and frozen crabs. Per capita consumption of cured fishery products, at 0.3 pound, remained the same as last year.

It appears that the increases in per capita consumption reflected during the 1970's may be reduced due to a considerable increase in the population estimates. The civilian population of the United States was 225.5 million persons on July 1, 1980, based on the Census count of April 1, 1980. This was considerably higher than the 220.7 million for the same date based on the April 1, 1970 census. When the 4.8 million error of closure has been resolved by the Bureau of the Census, estimates of the population for 1970-80 will be adjusted to make them consistent with the 1980 census count. These revisions in population will be reflected in the per capita consumption figures as soon as they become available. For continuity, the population figure, based on the 1970 census count, was used in computing 1980 per capita consumption.

In addition to consumption of commercially caught fish and shellfish, recreational fishermen catch and consume an amount estimated to be 3 to 4 pounds (edible meat) per person.

PER CAPITA USE. The per capita use of all fishery products, both edible and industrial, was 51.0 pounds (round weight) in 1980, down 2.6 pounds (4.9 percent) from 1979. The reason for the decrease was that imports were down 688.6 million pounds (12.4 percent). The per capita use of edible fishery products was down 4.0 percent and industrial use was down 7.4 percent.

PROCESSED FISHERY PRODUCTS

FRESH AND FROZEN

FISH FILLETS AND STEAKS. In 1980, the U.S. production of raw (uncooked) fish fillets and steaks was 173.6 million pounds valued at $239.5 million, 13.5 million pounds and $21.4 million less than the 1979 production. Flounder fillets led all species with 46.9 million pounds or 27.0 percent of the total. Production of groundfish fillets and steaks (cod, cusk, haddock, hake, Atlantic pollock, and Atlantic ocean perch) was 65.8 million pounds in 1980 compared with 74.6 million pounds produced a year earlier. The production of most fillets and steaks was less in 1980.

FISH STICKS AND PORTIONS. The combined production of fish sticks and portions was 449.6 million pounds valued at $488.5 million in 1980, compared with a 1979 production of 492.1 million pounds, valued at $529.0 million. The production of all portion items decreased in 1980: breaded cooked by 8.2 million pounds; batter coated cooked by 9.1 million; breaded raw by 10.7 million; and unbreaded portions by 6.9 million pounds, compared with the 1979 production.

FISH STICKS. The production in 1980 of 88.4 million pounds valued at $88.5 million was 7.7 million pounds and $11.3 million less than the 1979 production. The production of batter coated fish sticks, 18.4 million pounds, registered the largest decline, 8.5 million pounds; breaded cooked 822,000 pounds, but breaded raw increased by 1.7 million pounds.

BREADED SHRIMP. The 35 plants reporting to NMFS on a quarterly basis during 1980 produced 81.5 million pounds valued at $259.4 million. In 1979, 42 plants reporting on a quarterly basis produced 93.8 million pounds valued at $293.1 million. The 8 additional firms that reported only on an annual basis in 1979 produced 2.4 million pounds valued at $6.8 million that year. Data on the 1980 production of the plants that report only on an annual basis are not yet available.

FROZEN FISHERY TRADE. In 1980, stocks of frozen fishery products in cold storage were at a low of 333.7 million pounds on June 30 and a high of 471.2 million pounds on January 1. Cold storage holdings of shrimp products, which were 87.4 million pounds on January 31, dropped to 48.2 million pounds by June 30, and ended the year at 77.8 million pounds on December 31. Fish block holdings reached a high of 62.5 million pounds on January 1. By the end of 1980, stocks of fish blocks had declined to 46.7 million pounds. King crabs holdings were 34.1 million pounds on January 1, but were 37.8 million pounds on December 31, 1980.

PROCESSED FISHERY PRODUCTS

CANNED FISHERY PRODUCTS

CANNED FISHERY PRODUCTS. The 1980 pack of canned fishery products in the 50 States, American Samoa, and Puerto Rico was 53.0 million standard cases (1.5 billion pounds) valued at a record $1.9 billion--increases of 1.1 million standard cases (23.4 million pounds) and $164.3 million compared with the 1979 pack. The 1980 pack included 43.7 million standard cases (1.0 billion pounds) valued at a record $1.8 billion for human consumption and 9.3 million standard cases (448.1 million pounds) valued at $124.2 million for bait and animal food. The packs of herring and herring specialties, mackerel, salmon, tunalike fish, clams and clam products, clam specialties, shrimp, and squid increased in 1980, but the remaining packs of fish and shellfish declined.

CANNED SALMON. The 1980 U.S. pack of natural Pacific salmon reached 4.2 million standard cases, (201.6 million pounds) valued at $403.5 million, compared with 3.1 million standard cases (150.1 million pounds) valued at $275.2 million packed a year earlier. For the first time since 1949, the Alaska canned salmon pack topped 4 million cases, led by 1.6 million cases of red or sockeye, and 2.1 million standard cases of pinks. Alaskan plants accounted for more than 99 percent of the quantity and value of the salmon pack. The Alaskan catch was more than 110 million fish, about similar to the catch in 1934, when the canned pack was more than 7 million standard cases. However, that was made before the days of frozen salmon and air shipments of fresh salmon to markets in other States. An estimate of between 4 to 6 million pounds of salmon were flown fresh from Alaska to markets throughout the U.S. during the 1980 season.

CANNED SARDINES. The pack of Maine sardines (sea herring) was 846,500 standard cases valued at $31.5 million, a decrease of 451,300 standard cases and $13.4 million compared with 1979. An additional pack of herring and herring specialties of 134,900 standard cases valued at $10.5 million was packed in 1980--63,300 standard cases and $5.6 million more than the 1979 pack. The decline in the Maine sardine pack was attributed to larger size fish which were utilized in the pack of herring specialties.

CANNED TUNA. The 1980 U.S. pack of tuna was 30.9 million standard cases, (608.4 million pounds) valued at $1.1 billion. This was 528,300 standard cases and 11.8 million pounds less than the 1979 pack, however, the value increased by $29.0 million in 1980. The pack of albacore tuna was 5.5 million standard cases in 1980--294,000 standard cases less than the 5.8 million standard cases produced in 1979. Albacore tuna was 18 percent of the pack in 1980. Lightmeat tuna (bigeye, bluefin, skipjack, and yellowfin) comprised the remainder with a pack of 25.4 million standard cases--235,000 standard cases less than the 25.6 million standard cases packed in 1979. Plants in the United States packed 47.3 percent of the total; American Samoa, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico packed the rest. About 32 percent of the total supply of canned tuna was packed from U.S.-caught fish, and 58 percent from imported fish. Imports of canned tuna made up the remaining 10 percent.

CANNED CLAMS. The U.S. pack of clams (whole, minced, chowder, and juice) was 3.0 million standard cases valued at a record $66.0 million compared with 1979. The 1980 pack of whole and minced clams of 788,100 standard cases, which was 59,500 standard cases more than the 1979 pack, accounted for 26 percent of the total pack in 1980. Clam chowder and clam juice (2.3 million standard cases) made up the remaining 1980 pack.

CANNED SHRIMP. The 1980 U.S. pack of natural shrimp was 2.4 million standard cases valued at $71.1 million, 977,400 standard cases and $31.0 million more than the 1979 pack. Plants in Louisiana and Mississippi packed 1.8 million standard cases nearly double the pack of the previous year when only 900,000 standard cases were packed. The remaining pack (644,400) was packed in plants in Alaska and Washington.

OTHER CANNED ITEMS. The U.S. pack of mackerel was 824,300 standard cases valued at $11.3 million in 1980, 242,200 standard cases and $3.6 million more than the previous year. The pack of tunalike fish (bonito) in 1980 was 227,100 standard cases valued at $4.7 million, compared with 75,500 standard cases, valued at $1.6 million a year earlier. The natural pack of oysters continued to decline. In 1980 less than three plants produced this item. In 1980 the pack of pet food (10 pounds of fish per standard case of 48 one-pound cans) was 9.3 million standard cases valued at $123.2 million, a decline of 660,100 standard cases and $23.6 million compared with the pack in 1979. A decline in the pack of natural tuna, accounted for the decrease in the pack of pet food in 1980. Tuna accounted for 49 percent of the pet food pack.

PROCESSED FISHERY PRODUCTS

INDUSTRIAL FISHERY PRODUCTS

INDUSTRIAL FISHERY PRODUCTS. The 1980 value of industrial fishery products produced in the 50 States, American Samoa, and Puerto Rico was a record $268.8 million, $9.3 million more than the previous record in 1979. In terms of value, the leading States were Louisiana ($96.3 million), followed by Maine ($47.2 million), and Virginia ($27.2 million).

FISH MEAL AND SCRAP. Domestic production in 1980 (including shellfish meal) was 361,922 short tons, 12,371 short tons less than the record production of 374,293 short tons produced in 1979. Menhaden meal (271,181 short tons) was 9,632 short tons less than the record production of 280,813 short tons produced in 1979, but still amounted to nearly 75 percent of all the domestic fish meal and shellfish meal produced. The production of anchovy meal (7,834 short tons), tuna and mackerel meal (47,019 short tons), and shellfish meal (6,595 short tons) were down from the 1979 production by 2,072 short tons, 372 short tons, and 4,383 short tons respectively. Unclassified meal (29,293 short tons) consisting mainly of alewives, carp, sea herring, and unclassified fish measured the only increase--4,088 short tons more than the 1979 production.

FISH SOLUBLES. Domestic production of fish solubles in 1980 (133,682 short tons) was 1,246 short tons less than the 1979 production. Menhaden solubles (99,375 short tons) accounted for more than 74 percent of the total production.

FISH OILS. The 1980 domestic production of fish oils set a record in quantity when 311.6 million pounds were produced--43.6 million pounds more than the 1979 production and 12.3 million pounds more than the previous record set in 1936 when 299.3 million pounds were produced. Menhaden oil production of 291.4 million pounds was 40.1 million pounds more than the 1979 production and comprised 94 percent of all fish oils produced. Tuna and mackerel oil (4.1 million pounds) and anchovy oil (1.4 million pounds) declined in production in 1980, by 1.3 million pounds and 1.4 million pounds respectively. The production of unclassified oil (14.7 million pounds) was 6.3 million pounds more than the 1979 production.

OTHER INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTS. Oyster shell products, together with agar-agar, animal feeds, crab and clam shells processed for food serving, fish pellets, Irish moss extracts, kelp products, dry and liquid fertilizers, pearl essence, shark leathers, and mussel shell buttons were valued at $63.2 million in 1980, compared with $58.8 million in 1979.

FOREIGN TRADE IN FISHERY PRODUCTS

IMPORTS. The value of U.S. imports of edible fishery products was a record $2,682 million, $14 million higher than the record $2,668 million established in 1979. However, the quantity of edible imports was 225 million pounds less than the 2,369 million pounds imported in 1979. This increase in value for edible imports was mainly due to higher prices for nearly all imported products.

Imports were higher in 1980 for fresh and frozen halibut, salmon, tuna other than albacore, and crabmeat, and for canned sardines not in oil, tuna not in oil, bonito and yellowtail in oil and not in oil, and American lobsters. Edible imports in 1980 consisted of 1,868 million pounds of fresh and frozen products valued at $2,320 million, 212 million pounds of canned products valued at $297 million, 58 million pounds of cured products valued at $60 million, and 6 million pounds of other products valued at $5 million.

Adding nonedible imports valued at $966 million to the edible products gives total fishery imports in 1980 of $3,648 million. The 1980 value was $177 million less than the record nonedible imports of $1,143 million in 1979.

EXPORTS. U.S. exports of edible fishery products of domestic origin exceeded the record established for quantity in 1979. The new record of 573.9 million pounds was 20.3 million pounds more than the 553.6 million pounds exported in 1979. The value of these same exports was $904.4 million in 1980, $115.8 million less than the record value of $1,020.2 million in 1979. Decreases in the value of fresh and frozen fish and shellfish products were responsible for most of the decline.

Adding exports of nonedible products valued at $101.8 million to exports of edible products results in total exports of $1,006.2 million in 1980, $76.2 million less than the 1979 exports of $1,082.4 million.

(1) Landings are reported in round (live) weight for all items, except univalve and bivalve mollusks, such as clams, oysters, and scallops, which are reported in weight of meats (excluding the shell).

(2) Includes all landings in the Great Lakes and other inland waters.

(3) Less than 500 lb or $500.

Note:--Data are preliminary. They include landings by U.S.-flag vessels at Puerto Rico and other ports outside the 50 States and catch by U.S.-flag vessels unloaded onto foreign vessels within the U.S. FCZ (joint venture). Therefore, they will not agree with "U.S. Commercial Landings " table. Data do not include production of aquaculture, except oysters and clams.

AQUACULTURE

Aquaculture may be defined as the culture or husbandry of aquatic animals or plants by private industry for commercial purposes or by public agencies for augmenting natural stocks. With the passage of the National Aquaculture Act of 1980, Public Law 96-362, in September 1980, it is incumbent upon the Secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce and Interior, where appropriate, to undertake a continuing assessment of the United States aquaculture industry. The following table presents for the first time U.S. commercial aquaculture production of marine, brackish, and freshwater species. Information on freshwater species was obtained from the Department of Agriculture based on their 1980 catfish and trout survey.

U.S. AQUACULTURE PRODUCTION, BY SPECIES, 1979 AND 1980 (1)

Species	1979		1980
	Thousands pounds	Thousands dollars	Thousand pounds	Thousand dollars
Fish:
Catfish	40,600	28,800	76,700	53,600
Salmon	2,400	900	7,600	3,400
Trout	25,000	21,000	48,000	37,500
Shellfish:
Oysters	6,800	11,600	7,200	12,300
Clams	8,900	5,400	9,100	5,600
Shrimp (prawns)	-	-	300	1,200
Total (2)	83,700	47,700	148,900	113,600

(1) Data shown are live weight harvest for consumption except for oysters and clams which are meat weight. Data for oysters and clams are included in commercial landings. Excluded are eggs, fingerlings, etc. which are an intermediate product level.
(2) These estimates do not include aquaculture production for all species such as abalone, mussels, striped bass, crawfish et al., which is estimated to be about 12.0 million pounds.

Note:--Data shown in this table contain estimates. Some species may not be shown to avoid disclosure of private enterprise.

GENERAL. The number of marine recreational fishermen has increased substantially in the last decade. Recent estimates indicate that there are 15-20 million recreational fishermen in the U.S. whose combined harvests account for approximately 30-35 percent of the total U.S. finfish harvest used for food. Expenditures by these fishermen for recreational fishing, the value of associated industries (such as tackle, boat and trailer manufacturers, and the party and charter boat industries), and the value of the recreational fishing experience itself are significant components of the U.S. economy.

DATA COLLECTION. Detailed statistical information on marine recreational fishing is required to support the objectives of the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 (MFCMA, PL 94-265). The MFCMA mandates preparation of management plans that promote domestic commercial and recreational fisheries, utilizing the best available biological, economic, and social information. Although reliable data on commercial fisheries have been collected for many years, the lack of a continuous or systematic collection of marine recreational fishery data has resulted in an inadequate data base.

Previous marine recreational fishing surveys have employed either a survey of fishermen at home (household survey) or a survey of fishermen at the fishing location (creel census or intercept survey.) The majority of these efforts covered limited geographic areas, were seasonal in nature or addressed specific fisheries. The most significant problems of these surveys related to the high cost of the surveys and the reliability of the results. For example, previous surveys required fishermen to recall information up to one year in the past. Biases introduced by the inability of fishermen to accurately recall the number and size of fish caught, and to correctly identify the species caught, raised questions regarding the reliability of the data. These questions together with other inadequacies in statistical design prompted the NMFS to examine ways of improving the survey design to provide more acceptable data.

CURRENT APPROACH. An optimum survey design consisting of two independent survey techniques used in 1979 was the result of methodology studies conducted in 1976 and 1977. The chosen design utilized an intercept survey of fishermen and a telephone survey of households. Each technique provided certain information that when combined produced estimates of recreational catch, effort, and participation.

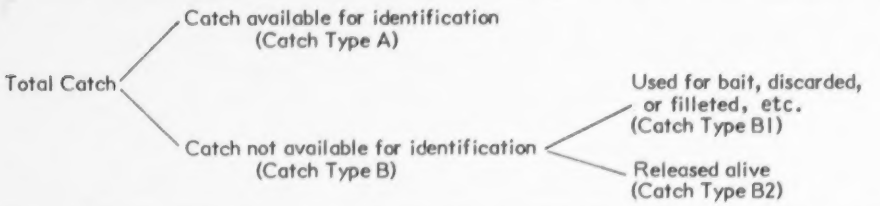
The first method of this "complemented" survey approach involved an on-site intercept survey in four fishing modes: beach/bank; party and charter boat; private and rental boat; and fishing from man-made structures. The allocation of interviews over time and by fishing mode was derived from the identification of all fishing sites in coastal counties by fishing activity. Interviews and examination of fishermen's catches were conducted after they had finished fishing or in some cases while they were still fishing. The type of data collected included fishing effort, catch, distribution of catch by species, weights, lengths, mode, and location of fishing.

The second method in the complemented surveys approach involved a telephone survey of households. In each coastal State all counties within a specified distance from the coast were included in the sample. The first eight digits of the telephone numbers called were obtained from a computerized data file of in-service residential numbers in each county; the last two digits were randomly generated. Calls were allocated by two-month periods and by county according to estimated fishing activity and population. The type of data collected included the number of fishermen, the number of trips, location of fishing, and mode of fishing for each trip. A two-month recall period was used for the telephone survey since beyond that time the respondents memory concerning dates and locations of trips was not sufficiently reliable. Fishermen were not asked detailed information about catch and effort because of the problem in identifying species caught and in recalling weights and lengths.

HOW DATA WAS COMBINED. The household survey collected data from residents with telephones in coastal counties. The intercept survey sample was similar but also included interviews with residents of non-telephone households and of non-coastal counties. During data processing, information collected in the household survey was combined with the intercept survey data to derive expanded estimates of the number of trips taken, the amount of finfish caught (number and weight), and the number of participants in fishing activities.

The estimate of the total number of fish caught in the survey includes: (1) those fish brought ashore in whole form which were available for identification, enumeration, weighing, and measuring by the interviewers (Catch Type A); (2) those fish used for bait, discarded dead, given away or brought ashore filleted or in some other dressed form (Catch Type B1); and (3) those fish released alive (Catch Type B2). In addition to estimating total catch, the survey provides an estimate for the components of total catch as shown in the following diagram.

U.S. MARINE RECREATIONAL FISHERIES



1979 RESULTS. The first year's survey from November 1978 to October 1979 included the Atlantic Coast, Gulf Coast, Caribbean area (Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands) and the Western Pacific area (Hawaii, Guam, and American Samoa.) This survey was extended through December 1979 to cover the calendar year. The second year's survey covered calendar year 1980 and included the Atlantic Coast, Gulf Coast, and the Western Pacific area (including the Northern Mariana Islands.) A 1-year survey was started on the Pacific Coast in July 1979 and was later extended to December 1980 in order to coincide with other 1980 surveys. These surveys are planned to continue annually for the next several years.

The following data and tables are excerpted from the 1979 report "Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey, Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, 1979." The part of the total catch brought ashore, weighed, and measured equaled 39.2 million pounds (Catch Type A). The part of the total catch representing fishing mortality equaled 346.8 million pounds and is the sum of Catch Type A and Catch Type B1 (307.6 million pounds). The estimated weight of the catch released alive (Catch Type B2) equaled 91.8 million pounds. The estimated grand total weight of 438.6 million pounds is the sum of Catch Type A, Catch Type B1, and Catch Type B2. Additional data such as State landings and fishing trips are included in the original document (CFS No. 8063; for ordering information see PUBLICATIONS section). Additional reports covering the Caribbean, Pacific, and Western Pacific survey regions are scheduled for publication in 1981.

Beginning June 4, 1978, Canadian authorities excluded almost all United States fishing vessels from Canadian waters, and United States authorities excluded almost all Canadian fishing vessels from United States waters. In the Pacific, halibut fishing continued under the United States-Canada Halibut Convention. In a 1979 groundfish agreement, Canada, in return for the right to catch a specified amount of halibut in the United States FCZ, granted United States fishermen the right to catch a specified amount of groundfish in the Canadian fishery zone. In the Atlantic, fishing continued by vessels of both nations in a boundary region often referred to as the "disputed zone."

(1) Includes diadromous (salmon and other anadromous fishes and catadromous fishes such as eels).

Note:--There are 2,204.6 pounds in a metric ton. Prior to 1970, the world commercial catch of whales and seals is excluded. For the years 1970-1979, data for marine mammals and aquatic plants are excluded. There is a revision in the total world commercial catch back to 1970 as published in FAO Yearbook of Fishery Statistics 1979, Vol. 48. However, prior to 1973, data on freshwater and marine catches were not revised. Therefore, for the years 1970 to 1972, data will not add to the grand total.

(1) Estimated by FAO.

Note:--Data on imports and exports cover the international trade of 162 countries. Among the countries excluded, only mainland China has significant exports. The total value of exports is consistently less than the total value of imports, probably because charges for insurance, freight, and similar expenses were included in the import value but not in the export value. The seven fishery commodity groups covered by this table are: 1. Fish, fresh, chilled or frozen; 2. Fish, dried, salted, or smoked; 3. Crustaceans and mollusks, fresh, frozen, dried, salted etc.; 4. Fish products and preparations, whether or not in airtight containers; 5. Crustacean and mollusk products and preparations, whether or not in airtight containers; 6. Oils and fats, crude or refined, of aquatic animal origin; and 7. Meals, solubles, and similar animal foodstuffs of aquatic animal origin.

PRICES

INDEXES OF EXVESSEL PRICES

The tables that follow show indexes of exvessel prices prepared by the National Marine Fisheries Service. Most of the prices used in calculating the "Indexes of Exvessel Prices for Fish and Shellfish" are based on monthly landings and value data. In a few cases, prices are obtained from Fishery Market News Reports and Market News Offices. The index for each species is calculated by multiplying the current monthly price by the total quantity caught in 1967 (the base year) to obtain a value for the current month. That value is then divided by the 1967 average monthly value to obtain the final index:

$$\frac{\text{(Current price X 1967 quantity)}}{\text{1967 average monthly value}} = \text{Index for each species}$$

To calculate the index for salmon, tuna, New England finfish, and other shellfish, the current monthly values for each of these species are added together and divided by the aggregate 1967 average monthly values for the group. To calculate monthly indexes for edible finfish, edible shellfish, edible fish, industrial fish, and all fish, the index number for each species is multiplied by a factor representing its importance in the total exvessel value of all species of fish and shellfish for the period 1966-70; the sum of these products is the index number for the group of species.

Each index number calculated for years other than the base year of 1967 measures price changes from the reference period (1967) which equals 100. An increase of 85 percent from the reference period in the index, for example, is shown as 185.0. This change can also be expressed in dollars, as follows: The price of a species of fish that sold in the United States for $1.00 per pound in 1967 has increased to $1.85 per pound.

VALUE ADDED, MARGINS, AND CONSUMER EXPENDITURES FOR EDIBLE FISHERY PRODUCTS IN THE UNITED STATES, 1979 AND 1980 - Continued

FOOTNOTES

(1) For imported fishery products, the margin and sales values at different levels are calculated in the same manner as they are done for the domestic production column, except that the markup rate at the processor level is 0.6518 in1979 and 0.7111 in 1980; at the wholesale level the markup rate is 0.1736 in 1979 and 0.1695 in 1980. In 1979 and 1980 the distribution rate is 51 percent at retail stores, 43 percent at eating places, and 6 percent at institutions.

(2) Value-added rate at each level is the weighted average of all fishery products, expressed as a percentage of its corresponding margin.

(3) Multiply each item under the total margin column by its corresponding value under the value-added rate column to get the actual value added as contribution to the economy from all production and distribution levels of the U.S. fishing industry in the food fish sector.

(4) Value of landings of fish for industrial purposes is deducted.

(5) Exports of unprocessed fish are deducted from the value of the landings after being converted to an equivalent value for domestic landings.

(6) Processor's purchase value (or domestic sales at the harvesting level) times the processor's markup rate (weighted average for all fishery products is 1.1320 in 1979 and 1.1378 in 1980) equals the margin at the processor's level.

(7) Exports of processed products are deducted at their export value from this level.

(8) Wholesale purchase value (processors domestic sales and unprocessed products from domestic landings) times the weighted average of markup rates (0.2087 for 1979 and 0.2095 for 1980).

(9) In 1979 and 1980, 39.7 percent of wholesale sales value is distributed to retailers. This value times the weighted average of markup rates (0.2872 in 1979 and 0.2878 in 1980) at the retail level equals the margin at retail.

(10) In 1979 and 1980, 55.3 percent of wholesale sales value is distributed to public eating places. At a markup rate of 1.210 for 1979 and 1.200 for 1980, the margin and sales values at this level are obtained.

(11) A wholesale sales value of 5 percent is distributed to institutions with a markup rate of 0.6530 in 1979 and 0.6520 in 1980; the margin and sales value at this level are then calculated.

(12) Consumer expenditures are the total sales value at retail stores, public eating places, and institutions. This total is also the sum of margins of five marketing levels and the landings value after export value is deducted.

Note:--The procedure for calculating the data in this table is based on two comprehensive reports: Cost Analyses of U.S. Fish Price Margins, 1972-1977, at Different Production and Distribution Levels and Marketing Bill of U.S. Fish-Food Products, both prepared by Erwin S. Penn (202-634-7111) of the Economic Analysis Staff, Office of Policy and Planning, Fx53.

PER CAPITA USE

Per capita use of commercial fish and shellfish is based on the supply of fishery products, both edible and nonedible (industrial), on a round-weight equivalent basis, without considering beginning or ending stocks, defense purchases, or exports (see page 67).

Per capita use figures are not comparable with per capita consumption data (see page 89). Per capita consumption figures represent edible (for human use) meat-weight consumption rather than round-weight consumption. In addition, per capita consumption includes allowances for beginning and ending stocks, defense purchases, and exports, whereas the use does not include such allowances.

Per capita use is derived by using total population including U.S. Armed Forces overseas. The per capita consumption is derived by using civilian resident population.

(2) Preliminary.

Note:--Population estimates do not reflect the results of the 1980 Census count.

PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION

Annual per capita consumption of seafood products represents the pounds of edible meat consumed from domestically caught and imported fish and shellfish adjusted for beginning and ending inventories, imports, exports, and military purchases, divided by the civilian population of the United States as of July 1 of each year.

(1) Resident population for 1909 to 1929 and civilian resident population for 1930 to date. These population estimates do not reflect the results of the 1980 Census count.

(2) Fresh and frozen fish consumption from 1910 to 1928 is estimated. Beginning in 1973, data include consumption of artificially cultivated catfish.

(3) Canned fish consumption for 1910 to 1920 is estimated. Beginning in 1921 it is based on production reports, packer stocks, and foreign trade statistics for individual years.

(4) Cured fish consumption for 1910 to 1928 is estimated.

(5) Data for 1909 estimate based on the 1908 census and foreign trade data.

(6) Preliminary.

*Record.

Note:--These consumption figures refer only to consumption of fish and shellfish entering commercial channels, and they do not include data on consumption of recreationally caught fish and shellfish which since 1970 is estimated to be between 3 and 4 pounds (edible meat) per person annually.

NORTHSTAR 7000

MICROPROCESSOR AUTOMATIC LORAN C RECEIVER

Meet your new Navigator

The first computerized Loran-C navigator that speaks your language

The Northstar 7000 is the result of three years of development by the Micro-Pros™ at Digital Marine, and is the successor to the standards of excellence set by the award-winning Northstar 6000. Just press the ON button and the Northstar 7000 navigator goes to work. First it identifies itself and your boat, then goes through self-testing; all the while telling you what it's doing and how things are, from its memory to the receiver module right up to the antenna. Next, your position is displayed, automatically.

Your choice of Northstar 7000 components makes Loran-C navigation available anywhere on board

Now you're set to do some serious navigating, and you choose the language: Loran-C TD's, Latitude/Longitude, or a Phantom-Loran-A™ conversion. Enter one route or up to twenty (you have a minimum of 60 waypoints to use), and the '7000' will guide you along.

And while the '7000' is navigating it will tell you information on time to go, true speed over the bottom, distance to go, cross track error, estimated time of arrival and more. All in your kind of language: nautical miles, statute miles or kilometers. The '7000' is also programmed with over 200 plain-english messages that provide you with navigating data.

Comprised of components with 'full-control' weatherproof remotes, the Northstar 7000 features many electronic advances: like automatic notch filters that self-adjust, and the ECD (Envelope to Cycle Discrepancy) monitor that analyzes and corrects signal distortion. All of which makes the '7000' most accurate and reliable.

The Micro-Pros™ make the Loran-C system work.
